1 THE COURT: Good morning, we will start hearings on 2 today's LTL Management matters. I have the amended agenda, the 3 ever evolving agenda.

4 We did have a request from Mr. Satterley that we 5 address the preliminary injunction bridge order issues first.
6 I'm happy to do so. Unless anyone has an issue with that. So 7 that would be, I guess number 7 on today's contested agenda.
8 Mr. Gordon, this is the Debtor's motion, continuing the 9 preliminary injunction and the issues as to the bridge order.
10 My understanding is that there's some agreement with Mr.
11 Placitella to defer a portion to June 22nd.

12 MR. GORDON: Correct.

13 THE COURT: So I guess those issues we'll address 14 next week. And so why don't you proceed with what remains for 15 today.

16 MR. GORDON: Yes, Your Honor. Well first of all, and 17 I think we do have an understanding with the other side in 18 terms of the order in which we'll take the matters. Obviously 19 subject to Your Honor's approval.

20 But the first item we would like to take up today is 21 agenda item number 8, which is the motion with respect to the 22 extension of the preliminary injunction order. And I was going 23 to comment as part of that with respect to item number 7, only 24 because there's a bit of an overlap there.

25 THE COURT: Sure.

1 MR. GORDON: And we'll clarify that. But we do have 2 an agreement with Mr. Placitella, both about briefing with 3 respect to the issues related to the claims that he's brought 4 in New Jersey, as well as the hearing date on the 22nd, Your 5 Honor, as you indicated.

6 And then I think we've agreed that we would, the next 7 item we would take up is exclusivity. The motion to terminate 8 exclusivity. Which I believe is item number 6.

9 THE COURT: All right.

10 MR. GORDON: So that's still up. And then we've still 11 got the expense reimbursement to deal with. We've got the 12 disclosure statement hearing issue to deal with as well, Your 13 Honor.

14 THE COURT: I guess that's why, that explains why 15 lunch was ordered. Okay.

16 MR. GORDON: And I think all that's left, there's 17 some uncontested matters which I don't think require any Court 18 attention today.

19 THE COURT: All right. That works for the Court.

20 Then --

21 MR. GORDON: I'm ready.

22 THE COURT: I'm ready.

23 MR. GORDON: We do have a PowerPoint presentation on 24 the PI.

25 THE COURT: All right.

1 MR. GORDON: May I approach, Your Honor

2 THE COURT: Yes, please. Thank you.

3 MR. GORDON: All right, can we go to slide number 1, 4 please. So Your Honor, I'll say at the outset, based on the 5 objection filed by the TCC, there seems to be some confusion in 6 terms of what the Debtor is seeking. As I read the objection 7 filed by the TCC, they're suggesting that we're asking the 8 Court to nullify the existing preliminary injunction order and 9 replace it with one which is a full throated preliminary 10 injunction order that stops all the litigation. And that's not 11 what we're asking for.

12 As indicated, we're only asking for three things. One 13 is, we're asking Your Honor to extend the existing injunction 14 which only enjoins trials for an additional 90 day period, 15 subject to revisiting for further periods of time. We're 16 asking for a ruling that you enforce the automatic stay as to 17 successor claims against Holdco, Kenvue and Janssen. Because 18 those in our view are clearly property of the Estate.

19 And then the third thing is, we're asking for a 20 ruling enforcing the automatic stay as to any claims against 21 Old JJCI and its predecessor JJCCI because those are claims 22 against LTL.

23 And it seems like from our perspective, the TCC
24 objection is more like a motion to lift the stay, because 25 they're suggesting that these claims, Estate property claims

1 can go forward to some degree, even though Your Honor I thought 2 was very clear in your ruling that the automatic stay remains 3 in effect. You weren't suggesting, I thought, when you entered 4 your order on the preliminary injunction, that there was any 5 modification being made to the automatic stay.

6 So there seems to be a little bit of a disconnect
7 with respect to the relief. And I'll address that in more 8 detail in a moment. Next slide, please.

9 And fundamentally, we think the objection that the 10 TCC has lodged should be overruled. Again we're not seeking to 11 expand the existing injunction. We don't think there's any 12 valid basis to suggest that these successor claims somehow 13 aren't subject to the automatic stay, that they're exempt on 14 some basis from the automatic stay.

15 We think there is a clear prospect for reorganization 16 in this case. I mean we get it, the motions to dismiss have 17 been filed. But we filed a disclosure statement, we filed a 18 plan. We did what we said we would do in the plan support 19 agreements, and there is a path forward in this case.

20 We also believe that limited -- you know, the request
21 we're making is limited, both in terms of time and the nature 22 of the injunction that we're seeking. And the idea that is 23 being proposed by the Committee that it should be shortened
24 further to end on the ruling of the dismissal. The Court's 25 ruling on the dismissal motions to us doesn't make sure. And 1 I'll explain why.

2 And they also made the argument again, the Committee
3 did, which has been made before and rejected by this Court 4 before, that you lack jurisdiction to enter the requested
5 relief. And we obviously disagree with that. Next slide, 6 please.

7 So I wanted to address --

8 THE COURT: One second, Mr. Gordon. Mr. Placitella.

9 MR. PLACITELLA: Yes, Your Honor. I hate to 10 interrupt, but we had an agreement that the successor liability 11 issues would not be on today.

12 THE COURT: I don't think I'm considering that today.

13 MR. PLACITELLA: And --

14 MR. GORDON: But that's why I wanted to address this 15 issue. Your Honor, the successor liability issues go beyond 16 just the claims of Mr. Placitella. And what we're going to ask 17 for is that in general with respect to successor liability 18 claims, putting his aside, that Your Honor enter a bridge order 19 to get us to the 22nd that basically imposes an injunction as 20 to the claims elsewhere, without prejudice to Mr. Placitella or 21 anyone else coming in here to argue that these aren't Estate 22 property claims.

23 But we have an agreement with Mr. Placitella to hold 24 everything or to stop the discovery in his cases, but we don't 25 have any protection in all the others. And what I'm going to 1 show you is, there have been literally hundreds of cases now 2 where these same kinds of claims are being made, and where 3 Kenvue and Janssen and Holdco are being named. And so we want 4 some temporary relief.

5 So I will be asking for that. But we're trying to do
6 it in a way that doesn't jeopardize the ability of Mr.
7 Placitella to make whatever arguments he wants to make.

8 MR. PLACITELLA: To ask the Court to get involved in 9 substantive issues on claims that we have a written agreement 10 about to delay for a week, when there's no threat to the 11 Debtor, is concerning.

12 THE COURT: I --

13 MR. PLACITELLA: I'm glad I showed up today. I was 14 considering not coming. I had to come back from France and 15 Italy. But you know, to stand up and hear this, is concerning.

16 THE COURT: I understand your position. And I'll get 17 back to you once I hear from the Debtor.

18 MR. GORDON: So Your Honor, first of all, I wanted to 19 deal with the objection that came in, it was either yesterday 20 or the day before, I can't recall now, from Mr. Satterley on 21 behalf of the Eagles and I think it was denominated in 22 informational brief. And I don't know whether it's denominated 23 that way because it was late or not, but I think there's a 24 complaint right in the beginning that suggests that the notice 25 was somehow defective which excuses a late filing. But Your

1 Honor's been clear for quite some time I think we were having 2 this hearing today on the extension. And so the deadlines were 3 what they were and this is a late filed objection.

4 But more importantly, the information that's in this 5 pleading is simply not true. It's predicated on the idea, this 6 pleading is predicated on the idea that you should do the same
7 thing basically for the Eagles that you did for Mr. Valadez
8 because there's a preferential trial set and coming up in July.

9 And the truth is, that's not accurate. Because J&J, 10 Old JJCI and Holdco, they were all severed from that 11 preferential trial setting. And that trial setting applied only 12 to parties that were part of this case as of the filing of the 13 motion for preference. And you can see the dates, Your Honor.
14 The case was filed in September of 2022. The preference was 15 granted in December of 2022. J&J, Old JJCI and Holdco were not 16 even named as defendants until April 3 and 4 of 2023. They 17 weren't served until April 20 and 21 of 2023.

18 And so none of them, none of those three entities is 19 included in that preferential trial setting. So the whole basis 20 for what's really a request for Your Honor to allow this trial
21 to proceed is not accurate. And so we wanted to point that out.
22 And we just think this objection should be overruled.

23 Mr. Satterley came before Your Honor many times to 24 say, nobody else is going to try to do the same thing, or has 25 tried to do the same thing that was done with Valadez, and here

1 we are, he himself is trying to do the exact same thing based 2 on statements of facts that simply aren't accurate. Next slide,
3 please.

4 The other thing about this case, just to note, this 5 is a case where there are multiple other exposures. There are 6 multiple other defendants. This is a plain -- claims, asbestos 7 exposure to the other products based on work in an assembly 8 plant. So we're talking about asbestos in brakes, asbestos in 9 axles. And he's alleging exposure to talc products other than 10 J&J products. So it's not as if there aren't a host of other 11 defendants from which he's seeking to -- or they're seeking 12 recoveries. But nonetheless, there is no trial setting in July 13 for which any of these entities is involved. Next slide, 14 please. Next slide, next.

15 So I think when the issue of the extension of the PI, 16 as I read the objections that have been filed, for the most 17 part they come down to the question of whether there's a 18 reasonable likelihood of a successful reorganization. And Your 19 Honor had indicated earlier that to demonstrate the reasonable 20 likelihood a movant need only show the prospect or possibility 21 that he or she will succeed and need not prove same with 22 certainty.

23 There was a similar statement by the Judge in the 24 Bestwall case, establishing the reorganization is likely to be 25 successful is not intended to be a particularly high standard.

1 Next slide, please.

2 So since we were last here, Your Honor, or actually 3 since Your Honor entered the last order, we have filed our 4 plan. We have filed a disclosure statement. We have requested 5 that a schedule be set for consideration of the disclosure 6 statement. Negotiations are continuing with the Ad Hoc 7 Committee of Supporting Counsel, to finalize the terms of the 8 plan.

9 We've had an FCR appointed in the case. Your Honor 10 has appointed co-mediators in the case and discussions with the 11 co-mediators are underway. So from the Debtor's perspective we 12 made substantial progress. Obviously the other side is, or I 13 should say the TCC is staunchly opposed to the case. We get 14 it. But I think we came to Your Honor from the beginning, told 15 Your Honor what our plan was. We came in with plan support 16 agreements that were supported by a substantial number of 17 claimants. We said we'd file a plan by mid-May. We did file a 18 plan by mid-May.

19 I think we indicated clearly that we're committed to 20 moving this case forward promptly and I think everything that's 21 developed so far in this case would confirm that that's our 22 intention.

23 We'll deal with the litigation as it comes. And 24 obviously Your Honor will ultimately decide whether this case 25 continues or not. But we've done everything in our power to 1 move the case forward. And we have been moving the case

2 forward. Next slide, please.

3 Here, Your Honor, just a reminder that the relief 4 that we're seeking is limited. Your Honor has allowed, by 5 virtue of the prior order, discovery and other pretrial matters 6 to continue. The only thing that's enjoined at this point is 7 the ability to go forward with trials. And I think Your Honor 8 even concluded that based on the very limited nature of the 9 relief that you were granting, that the talc claimants would 10 not be harmed.

11 We're in a situation where the motions to dismiss 12 will be resolved in the near term. And from our perspective, 13 the extension really is critical to continued progress in the 14 case, because this case is about resolving these claims in 15 bankruptcy. And allowing them instead to be liquidated in 16 State Courts or Federal Courts or wherever around the country
17 in the meantime will adversely affect our ability to achieve a 18 resolution in this case. And that's something that Your Honor 19 recognized with respect to the entry of the PI. Next slide, 20 please.

21 We think a 90 day extension is appropriate. It 22 again, this would allow the Court to consider again relatively 23 shortly whether the Debtor is making sufficient progress to 24 warrant a further extension of the limited injunction.

25 The idea that's being offered by the Committee that

1 you should -- if you're inclined to grant this, end it on the 2 date that the Court rules on a motion to dismiss, from our 3 perspective, doesn't make any sense. Because if you grant the 4 motions to dismiss, the injunction becomes moot. If you deny 5 the motions to dismiss, I can't see any reason why you would 6 immediately need to revisit the injunction at that point.
7 There should be no reason to revisit it before the end of the 8 90 day period.

9 And there was a, kind of an offhand statement that 10 this would somehow, by limiting it to the end of the -- to the 11 time of the ruling on the dismissal motion that somehow that 12 would consolidate appellate review. Well they've already 13 appealed from the PI. They've signaled they're going to appeal 14 literally every order in the case that doesn't go their way.
15 I'm sort of at a loss to see how it consolidates appellate 16 review given we've already got an appeal that's pending. Next 17 slide, please.

18 With respect to the issues on the automatic stay, 19 again Your Honor I thought made clear that the automatic stay 20 remains in effect. And we have a quote on the slide, it comes 21 both from the hearing transcript and it's in Your Honor's PI 22 opinion as well. And of course when you start with the 23 automatic stay, we know that's governed by 362(a) which has 24 more than one part. But it applies to any action or proceeding 25 against the Debtor, and any act to exercise control over

1 property of the Estate. Which is the (a) (3) portion of 362.

2 Next slide, please.

3 So with respect to Old JJCI and JJCCI, those entities 4 no longer exist. And Your Honor knows this certainly with 5 respect to Old JJCI, that it went out of existence on October 6 12th as part of the corporate restructuring. JJCCI, its 7 predecessor, ceased to exist in 2015.

8 If you go to the next slide, I mean the point is that 9 fundamentally a claim against these entities is a claim against 10 LTL. Because LTL is the successor. They no longer exist. And 11 you can see the problem that you have if the automatic stay 12 isn't enforced. So here is just an example of a discovery 13 request in one of the cases. This is in the Barkley case. This 14 was a notice of deposition at Old JJCI. They're asking for 15 information, or the plaintiff is asking for information 16 pertaining to any and all funding agreements between LTL and 17 any other entity. The next one asks for any information 18 pertaining indemnity agreements as between LTL and any other 19 person.

20 Now this is getting into -- I mean if this is allowed 21 to continue, we're getting into issues that are issues that are 22 important to this case. And now there's an effort to address 23 them outside of the Bankruptcy Court. Next slide, please.

24 And it's sort of the same thing in terms of the 25 allegations that are being made in these cases, as if there's

1 no automatic stay. Here's a plaintiff in the Compton case
2 saying he was exposed to fibers, allegedly, exposed to fibers 3 which are manufactured -- well fibers in products manufactured, 4 sold, distributor installed by J&J. J&J Consumer Inc., that's 5 JJCI formerly known as J&J Consumer Companies, Inc., that's 6 JJCCI. Next slide, please.

7 I think Your Honor has already addressed this issue, 8 this is in connection with the preliminary injunction with 9 regard to the State claims in the first case. Where I think 10 you found that actions against all JJCI, the nonexistent JJCI, 11 constitute actions or proceedings against the Debtor, under 12 363(a) (1) .

13 And here we are in a situation where we have the 14 automatic stay, we have a limited injunction, yet parties are 15 out there suing these entities in the tort system, which is 16 literally the same as suing the Debtor, LTL. Next slide, 17 please.

18 Now this what I wanted to address on the successor
19 liability actions, which Mr. Placitella is not happy about.
20 But you can see here, we tried to show what's been happening 21 with respect to these successor liability claims. How they're 22 unfolding over time. So if you go all the way to right, as of 23 today approximately 177 complaints that have been served naming 24 Holdco, Janssen or Kenvue, one or more of Holdco, Janssen or 25 Kenvue. And on top of the 177, we have 145 motions to amend

1 complaints to name one of those three as well. And that's just 2 in New Jersey.

3 You know, this is the kind of burden that's being put 4 on us by these efforts to use claims that are Estate property
5 to bring in these parties. And these require responses. I mean 6 this takes time. It takes money. And that's the prejudice to 7 us. Next slide, please.

8 So I won't spend a lot of time on this because I 9 recognize that we're going to deal with this on the 22nd. But 10 we believe these claims are automatically stayed.

11 THE COURT: Right.

12 MR. GORDON: And we're going to ask Your Honor to 13 make that, reach that conclusion, make that finding when we 14 come back on the 22nd. But again, from our perspective and 15 what I was going to request today, is that Your Honor, in your 16 order, if you're inclined to grant our request, to include a 17 provision that says that provisionally the automatic stay is 18 deemed to apply between now and June 22nd, in all cases other 19 than Mr. Placitella cases. We have an agreement to maintain the 20 status quo effectively in those cases. So that we can take 21 away that interim burden until Your Honor can address the issue 22 and can do it in a way that's not prejudicial to Mr.
23 Placitella.

24 So that's the way Your Honor, we're proposing to work
25 our way through the fact that we have an agreement with Mr.

1 Placitella, which we're intending to honor. But at the same
2 time we need relief with respect to claims that we strongly 3 believe are barred by the automatic stay because we think 4 there's really no question that they are Estate property.

5 I mean they're literally an attack on the divisional 6 merger. That somehow the divisional merger did not cutoff the 7 liability as Texas Law provides. That somehow that New JJCI
8 continued to have the liability and that liability then flowed 9 through somehow to Kenvue and it flowed through somehow to 10 Janssen. Next slide, please.

11 So I won't spend too much time on these, but the TCC
12 and its objection in our view misstates the law again about, on 13 the automatic stay. And these are all issues Your Honor has 14 already addressed before. But for example, at the top here
15 they've stated again that the 362(a) applies only to Debtors
16 with no exceptions as if 362(a)(3) doesn't really mean 17 anything. We think Your Honor has already addressed that.
18 There are cases obviously that suggest that that's not correct.

19 And then they also make an argument predicated on the 20 McCartney case, which Your Honor has relied on the past. But 21 there, you know, that Court I think contrary to what the TCC is 22 suggesting, actually found that the protection under 362(a) 23 would apply to nondebtors, if the Court were to find,
24 quote/unquote, unusual circumstances. And again Your Honor 25 went through this before. And I'm not going to reiterate what

1 that is. But we think the unusual circumstances here clearly 2 exist.

3 So we think we're kind of passed issues like this,
4 but I wanted to at least have a slide on it to briefly go over 5 ground that we've tread before. Next slide, please.

6 Same thing on jurisdiction. I'm not going to really 7 spend any time, any significant time on this. But again
8 there's an argument being advanced by the TCC, notwithstanding 9 your other findings, that there's no jurisdiction. That you 10 have to have jurisdiction over the underlying talc claims. It's 11 not jurisdiction over the requests that we're making here in 12 Bankruptcy Court.

13 And again I think Your Honor has dealt with this 14 before. There's unquestionably in our mind related to 15 jurisdiction, and the Court should find -- the Court's found 16 that before, the Court should find that again. And it's based 17 on a number of things. And it's just not, there's a number of 18 different affects as indicated, affects on the Estate as 19 indicated down at the bottom.

20 And so we think again Your Honor should just reject 21 that argument for the same reasons you rejected it before.
22 Next slide, please.

23 This slide, Your Honor, is just to point out that, 24 there's no question that the focus under these claims is on 25 successor liability. I mean it has to be the case because none

1 of these three entities Holdco, Kenvue or Janssen ever
2 manufactured or sold any talc products in North America.

3 And of course again, it's an attack on the corporate 4 restructuring given that the talc liability was all allocated 5 to the --

6 THE COURT: I don't want to go too far into what 7 we'll be discussing on the 22nd.

8 MR. GORDON: Okay, okay. And then the last point is 9 just to show you an example of one of the pleadings where 10 there's specific references to successor claims. Next slide.

11 And again I won't spend any time on this, you can 12 just see the similarities in what's being pled and then what 13 you're hearing in the Bankruptcy case. Next slide.

14 So we think it's important that Your Honor enforce 15 the automatic stay because we're in a situation where 16 potentially issues are going to be litigated outside, and this 17 goes back to the Old JJCI and JJCCI as well.

18 We did attempt to have some of the claims dismissed 19 on the basis that they weren't properly being brought. And that 20 was unsuccessful. And so we've come to Your Honor to enforce 21 the automatic stay so that we can stay focused here on what we 22 need to stay focused on, and to, we want to fully preserve our 23 ability to resolve these claims in the Bankruptcy case. Next 24 slide, please.

25 So we included here, Your Honor, just a few slides,

1 because you did ask us, at least one time, maybe it was more
2 than once, to address the issues that were raised by the Third
3 Circuit opinion. And I think they were all, as I recall, in a 4 footnote.

5 And so the first was whether the Debtor is obligated 6 to indemnify J&J for J&J's independent conduct post 1979. The 7 second was whether the indemnity that exists in the case could 8 include punitive damage verdicts against J&J for its conduct.
9 And then whether Old JJCI in fact assumed responsibility for 10 claims relating to Shower to Shower. And --

11 MR. SATTERLEY: Your Honor, I hate to interrupt, I
12 apologize, Your Honor. As I advised Your Honor yesterday, I 13 have to be in State Court for the jury trial of 18 jurors at 14 eight o'clock. And since Mr. Gordon addressed -- to go early, 15 I was wondering if I could just have five minutes to briefly 16 address that. And then I apologize, Mr. Gordon, I just want to 17 be able to make a record before I leave. And Mr. Maimon will 18 address any additional questions that Your Honor may have 19 later.

20 THE COURT: Mr. Gordon --

21 MR. GORDON: That's fine, Your Honor.

22 THE COURT: Can we take a pause.

23 MR. GORDON: Sure.

24 THE COURT: All right, Mr. Satterley. Thank you, Mr.
25 Gordon.

1 MR. SATTERLEY: Thank you, Your Honor. Thank you for 2 allowing me to participate via Zoom and may it please the 3 Court. I filed a pleading yesterday because quite frankly I
4 was shocked at the TCC's response interpreting the Debtor's 5 motion to stop the litigation in total. Because I read the 6 motion on the 5th, it was filed 11:30, 11:27 at night, asking 7 for an ex parte and to stop, or to shorten time rather, and 8 require everybody to file a response a couple of days later on 9 the 9th.

10 I read the motion as it related to Mr. Placitella's 11 cases and Kenvue and Janssen. Nowhere in the motion did it say 12 we want to stop all litigation in total. And the reason why I 13 filed the informational brief is to simply give Your Honor an 14 update that since Your Honor lifted the stay back in April, the 15 State Courts have complied with Your Honor's request not to 16 schedule trials until after June 15th. And Judge Seabolt with 17 regard to the Eagles' case, purposely did it to June the 20th, 18 set it up for June the 20th, and then we've continued it with 19 Judge Seabolt's agreement so that J&J could have adequate time 20 to prepare for trial.

21 Now what it seems like is going on, is that they're 22 asking for one thing in a motion, and they're seeking something 23 different in an order. And that violates due process to its 24 core.

25 The one thing that Mr. Gordon said that I agree with 1 is, he said we will deal with the litigation when it comes.

2 And J&J has done that for years. They've been able to deal 3 with this litigation. They've been able to settle cases on the 4 courtroom steps. And they can continue to do that. They can 5 continue to do that.

6 So, and the other thing I wanted to say is he put a 7 pleading regarding Barkley, Susan Barkley died of mesothelioma, 8 her case is scheduled for trial, autopsy is done, the same 9 ingredients of the products in her tissue. And that 10 interrogatory relates to their "ability to pay punitive 11 damages". Because they're playing this shell game on where the 12 money is. And under State Law we have to prove the ability to 13 pay punitive damages. So that's, so Mr. Gordon's taking things 14 out of context, that's not in his pleadings. Not in his motion.
15 And trying to trick -- quite frankly, trying to trick the Court 16 to get relief, to get a total stay.

17 And I put it in my papers, irreparable harm will 18 occur to Mr. Eagles, Mr. and Mrs. Eagles, because he will die 19 before his trial if Your Honor grants their stay of litigation.
20 And he's 80 years old. He's got terminal mesothelioma. He is 21 not getting any treatment for it, no chemotherapy, there's 22 nothing to prolong his life. He's simply suffering from this 23 disease.

24 And Your Honor made a well reasoned, well reasoned 25 opinion, back in April to allow J&J sufficient time to prepare

1 for these trials. And in their motion, they don't address any 2 of the balancing factors whatsoever under MidAtlantic, as it
3 relates to any particular creditor. They really sort of trick,
4 try to trick Your Honor to say, we're just talking about Kenvue
5 and Janssen and what's going on in Middlesex County. And at no
6 point in time do they address Mr. Eagles, do they address Susan 7 Barkley, do they address Mr. Raya's case, which is scheduled in 8 August.

9 And so I would urge Your Honor, urge Your Honor to 10 deny, either deny out of hand or to continue it on down the 11 road, let us continue to go to trials and work up our cases 12 because we weren't given adequate notice for a full stay as it 13 relates to everybody, to all trials.

14 The final point I'd make, Your Honor, is not only is 15 this a burden upon individual dying people, and I'm sorry, 16 we're not harassing anybody. If you hurt a lot of people and 17 kill a lot of people, then you are responsible under the law.

18 The final point is, these courts, these State Court 19 systems are burdened also if you grant the Debtor, the 20 nondebtors relief because they're going to be two trials or 21 maybe three trials for the Eagles' family. In Alameda County 22 Mr. Eagles lives right down the street here. Born and raised.
23 Spent his whole life here in Alameda County. The Court system 24 is going to have to try his case two or three times for the co-25 tortfeasors right now, the other generic talcum powders, the

1 one remaining brake defendant that's left. And then later for 2 J&J. And then maybe later for LTL because definitely, 3 eventually is going to be dismissed.

4 So I would urge Your Honor to not grant the full 5 relief they're asking. To only deal with Janssen and Kenvue, 6 the limited aspect of their motion. And I'll apologize that 7 I've got a jury trial, I can't be there in person. I really am
8 passionate for my clients. I love doing this. And I apologize
9 to the Court that I'm not there. But I want to thank Mr. Gordon 10 for letting me spend a couple of minutes explaining my 11 position. And my proxy, Moshe Maimon, will address the rest of 12 my issues. Thank you, Your Honor.

13 THE COURT: All right, thank you Mr. Satterley.
14 Thank you, Mr. Gordon, you may continue.

15 MR. GORDON: The one thing, Your Honor, I'll respond 16 to is the allegation that we are attempting to trick the Court.
17 That is highly offensive. And it's highly offensive primarily 18 because you may note, he didn't respond to any of the 19 misrepresentations that we pointed out he made in connection 20 with that case, with the Eagles' case that the J&J or the 21 Holdco, Old JJCI and JJCCI are not even part of the trial
22 that's set to come up in July.

23 But anyway, Your Honor, back to the slides, the, so 24 there were three issues which I went through. We think it's 25 clear that the Debtor has an obligation to indemnify J&J in 1 each of the three instances. Next slide, please.

2 So first of all, we think the Court was correct when 3 it concluded that our predecessor had assumed all liabilities, 4 including contingent and future product liability claims.
5 Notwithstanding some language in the indemnity itself. And you 6 may remember the language at issue was language that talked 7 about liabilities included in or allocated -- I forget the 8 exact words, on the books or records.

9 And that was really supported in four different 10 respects. One by the language of the 1979 agreement itself.
11 The circumstances and course of performance between the parties 12 since 1979. Case law that was very much on point involving 13 factual situations, highly similar. And then the 14 indemnification provisions in the merger support agreement 15 itself. And I'm talking about the divisional merger support 16 agreement. Next slide, please.

17 So there are many slides that we provided and there 18 was a significant amount of evidence in the record on this,
19 Your Honor. But I mean the point is, that the, this was at a 20 point in time, Your Honor may recall, when J&J was basically 21 transferring the entirety of business operations to 22 subsidiaries. It did it with its baby powder business. And in 23 connection with that, the subsidiary to which the operations 24 were transferred agreed to assume all the liabilities. And just 25 here we've highlighted some of the very, very broad language

1 that was reflected in there.

2 And it was a forever indemnification, it was assuming 3 all debt, all indebtedness, all liabilities of every kind, of 4 every description. Next slide, please.

5 We had meeting minutes from Board of Directors
6 meetings that said that in furtherance of J&J's longstanding 7 policy of decentralization when they were moving all of these 8 assets out, the 79 agreement was intended to transfer all 9 assets to subsidiaries who in turn would assume the 10 liabilities.

11 And the evidence was, and I think this supported your 12 finding as well, that since the 79 transaction and at all times 13 prior to the 2021 restructuring, all the costs associated with 14 the talc litigation had been borne by all JJCI or its 15 predecessors, and that included defense costs. It included 16 settlements, it included verdicts, whether they had punitive 17 damage aspects to them or not. It included everything. Next 18 slide.

19 And then Your Honor probably recalls, there were two 20 cases that we cited. One was a Third Circuit case, the Bouton 21 case, the other was a Eastern District of Pennsylvania case, 22 the Bippus case, very similar facts to our facts where there 23 are arguments being made that, well the liabilities at issue 24 doesn't, wasn't covered because in the first case it wasn't 25 reflected or reserved against in the financial statements. And

1 a similar effort, a similar argument was made in the Bippus
2 case about liabilities and obligations reflected on the balance 3 sheet. And notwithstanding that, the Court said no, the 4 language is broad enough to pick up liabilities that weren't 5 specifically enumerated in the financial records. Next slide,
6 please.

7 And then of course there was the, as Your Honor 8 knows, the indemnity that was contained in the divisional 9 merger support agreement as well. So there were four bases on 10 which the Court could make the finding that it did. I don't 11 know why the Third Circuit raised this issue. And as I recall 12 kind of highlighted the books and records language. But to us 13 the facts were clear on this point. The law was supportive on 14 this point. And the Court's finding was accurate and in our 15 view does not need to be revisited. Next slide.

16 So the second issue raised by the Third Circuit is 17 the question of the coverage of punitive damages. And again I
18 think we can kind of start where I started before with respect 19 to the first issue, which is if the indemnity obligations were 20 broad, there was nothing that suggested they were limiting in 21 any way. Again the parties' course of conduct was fully 22 consistent with a conclusion that punitive damages were 23 intended to be covered because they were. I mean they were 24 allocated to and borne by Old JJCI or its predecessors.

25 The other thing I think that's important to remember

1 is that I suppose a policy argument could be advanced, and 2 maybe this is what the Third Circuit had in mind, that it's not 3 appropriate for there to be an indemnity for punitive damages
4 because the wrongdoer shouldn't be able to pass that liability 5 onto another entity.

6 But I think what's important here, even if you 7 believe that that would have some applicability and it would 8 overcome the documents and the intent, here they're all part of 9 the same corporate enterprise. And so by moving this to, or 10 having a subsidiary with the business cover the obligation, 11 still impacts the ultimate owner. So ultimately impacts the 12 equity value of J&J. So to me that policy argument wouldn't 13 apply in any event.

14 And the only arguments I think that have ever been 15 advanced to suggest that punitive damages couldn't be 16 indemnified are cases involving either insurance or public 17 entities, and those just have no application here.

18 So again we think the, we think the conclusion here 19 should clearly be that punitive damages are covered. Next 20 slide, please.

21 And you know, just to take a look at a couple of 22 cases, they're not entirely on point. But we have this Cozzi 23 case as well as the Lateo (phonetic) case. And these were 24 situations where the courts were wrestling somewhat with policy 25 issues like what I was referring to. And in both cases the 1 courts found that no, that wasn't enough to overcome what is 2 clearly indicated by the language that was used by the parties.

3 And in our case it's not only the language, it's the multiple 4 years of course of performance as well. Next slide, please.

5 On the Shower to Shower, again it's not clear to me
6 why the Third Circuit raised an issue with this, because we did 7 put in evidence on this what we had, in terms of going back 8 over a long period of time and showing Your Honor the documents
9 that we did have. But this maybe a slide that we showed before 10 and I'm not going to spend a lot of time on it. But you know, 11 ultimately the Shower to Shower products, you know, we kind of 12 worked our way through the time line of how they ultimately, 13 the responsibility for liabilities associated with those 14 products ended up with Old JJCI, you know, through an entity
15 that was called Personal Products Company. And that started 16 from a transfer that came from J&J where the assets and 17 liabilities of Shower to Shower were transferred to that 18 Personal Products Company.

19 If you go to the next slide, you may recall that we 20 showed some documents like this. There was an internal letter 21 that said that Personal Products Company will take full 22 responsibility for Shower to Shower on January 1, 1978. And if 23 you go to the next slide, similar, this was in a 10K from 1979
24 referring to Personal Products Company and the products it 25 sold. And one of them of course was Shower to Shower brand

1 baby powder. That was one of the things that was in the 2 record. Next slide, please.

3 And then here's an indication in 1987 that the, that 4 that business ended up in Johnson & Johnson Baby Products 5 Company. You can see the reference to Shower to Shower at the 6 bottom and that was one of the predecessors to Old JJCI. Next 7 slide.

8 So just to finish on Shower to Shower, so we provided 9 what we had on Shower to Shower. We had documentation that 10 reflected that the responsibility for that liability had been 11 picked up by Old JJCI through its predecessors. And we had 12 importantly the course of performance that also showed that 13 liabilities for Shower to Shower had been charged to and paid 14 by Old JJCI and its predecessors over the many year period
15 since 19 -- I guess January 1, 1978.

16 So just to conclude, Your Honor, we would ask that 17 you overrule the Eagles' objection for the reasons I indicted.
18 We would ask that you continue the limited injunction that's 19 currently in effect for an additional 90 days, subject to the 20 Debtor's rights, right to seek further extensions, and 21 obviously Your Honor's ability to review the circumstances at 22 that time and decide whether you think there's still a 23 sufficient prospect for reorganization that it warrants 24 continuing the injunction.

25 We would ask that you enforce the automatic stay

1 because of what's happening in the tort system, in the wake of 2 your prior order. And that you do so by making clear in the 3 order that the stay does apply to claims against Old JJCI and 4 then the JJCCI entity. And that you also make clear that it 5 apply to successor liability claims. But again here, just to 6 restate it, this would only be a bridge to get us to the 7 hearing on June 22nd with a clear understanding that the 8 Court's not making any ruling on the merits, it's just to carry 9 us over on a bridge so that Your Honor can then consider the 10 issues fully with any contribution that's made by Mr.
11 Placitella or anyone else on the particular issue.

12 And as I said before, we don't think there's a basis 13 to limit, or to reduce the amount of the 90 day period any 14 further. And certainly not based on, to limit it to the time 15 of the ruling on the dismissal motions because the ruling is 16 going to be informative either way. There's no need to revisit 17 the injunction at that point. If you grant the motions the 18 injunction becomes moot. If you don't, I can't imagine why 19 there'd be a need to revisit the injunction based on a denial 20 of the motions to dismiss. In our view there would be no 21 reason to do that until the 90 days would come up again.

22 THE COURT: All right, thank you, Mr. Gordon.

23 MR. GORDON: Thank you, Your Honor.

24 THE COURT: Let me turn to those who are in court 25 first before I see hands raised remotely. Anybody wish to be

1 heard? Counsel?

2 MR. SILVERSTEIN: Good morning, Your Honor, Adam
3 Silverstein of Otterbourg PC, proposed counsel for the TCC.
4 Your Honor, notwithstanding Mr. Gordon's presentation, this is 5 not a motion to extend the existing preliminary injunction for 6 90 days. It's not a motion to preserve the status quo. It's a 7 motion to fundamentally alter the status quo that currently 8 exists.

9 Why do I say that? The Court only needs to look at 10 the proposed order, which is consistent with Mr. Gordon's 11 slides, although they are presented in a different way. But 12 the proposed order in paragraph 3 says, the PI order as 13 modified by this order, shall remain effective for 90 days.
14 That's paragraph 3.

15 So what are the modifications that the Debtor seeks 16 to have this Court order currently. Let's look at paragraph 5.
17 In paragraph 5, the Debtor proposes that this Court stay or 18 enjoin from the commencement and/or continuation of actions
19 asserting Debtor talc claims against Old JJCI and JJCCI. Old 20 JJCI is a protected party that this Court took evidence on in 21 April. And that this Court limited injunctive relief as to.

22 The Court said on April 20th in reading its ruling 23 into the record, claimants who have had over the past 18 months 24 their claims and litigations stalled during the pendency of the 25 prior bankruptcy should not lose more valuable time. Therefore

1 I have determined that the TRO currently in place should be 2 dissolved and replaced with a fare more limited preliminary 3 injunction. And that limited preliminary injunction that 4 applied to Old JJCI, that applied to New JJCI, now Holdco, that 5 applied to J&J, and a list of other protected parties that this 6 Court all had evidence on and arguments on, allowed the 7 defendants in the adversary proceeding to pursue claims all the 8 way to trial or appeal. And the Court made clear there would 9 be no cessation of discovery or motion practice or the like.

10 What impact does having a stay or an injunction of 11 all actions asserting claims against Old JJCI have? Old JJCI 12 is Johnson & Johnson Consumer, Inc. It's the entity that 13 existed up until October 12th 2021, and it's the only entity
14 other than Johnson & Johnson that manufactured Johnson & 15 Johnson baby powder and Shower to Shower. So every one of the 16 38,000 lawsuits that were pending as of October 14th 2021, 17 names Old JJCI and Johnson & Johnson as defendants. They 18 assert claims against Old JJCI and Johnson & Johnson, because 19 those are the only parties that the plaintiffs knew about.
20 Nobody knew about LTL. Nobody sued LTL.

21 So an injunction or stay at this point that would 22 cease all actions asserting claims against Old JJCI would stop 23 every single lawsuit currently, that's currently pending that 24 was filed as of the first bankruptcy, including in the MDL.
25 That is a complete reversal, a complete change of the status

1 quo that the Court -- reflected in the preliminary injunction 2 that the Court entered on the record on April 20th, and by 3 order on April 25th.

4 The order that the Court entered on April 25th, 5 docket 91, at paragraph 3, provides that the defendants are 6 hereby stayed and enjoined from the commencement or conducting 7 of any trial or appeal of any Debtor talc claims against any of 8 the protected parties. And the protected parties included Old 9 JJCI.

10 So what are the other modifications that the Debtor 11 is now seeking? Well let's look at paragraph 6. The proposed 12 order that the Debtor would have this Court enter provides that 13 the defendants, which are the plaintiffs in the tort actions, 14 but they're defendants in the adversary proceeding, are stayed 15 and enjoined from the commencement and/or continuation of 16 actions asserting Debtor talc claims against Debtor's nondebtor 17 affiliates which included Holdco, which is formerly named New 18 JJCI, again another protected party that the Court had evidence 19 on, had arguments on, in April. And permitted litigation to 20 proceed up until trial and appeal.

21 And the Debtor's paragraph 7 in their proposed order 22 punctuates all this, because in it it says that the injunction 23 in paragraphs 5 and 6, which I just read from, without 24 limitation, the injunction includes the pursuit of discovery 25 from the nondebtor affiliated protected parties, which includes

1 Old JJCI, which includes New JJCI, which are currently subject 2 to ongoing litigation up to trial and appeal, or their 3 officers, directors, employees, or agents.

4 So read literally if there's an action against J&J
5 today that is continuing in litigation, and an employee of J&J 6 also served as, under a shared services arrangement as an agent
7 or an officer or director of Old JJCI or New JJCI, this 8 proposed order stops all discovery as to that individual, even 9 though they're employed by J&J.

10 It's a complete change of the existing status quo.
11 And yet the Debtor has come forward with not a shred of 12 evidence or legal argument that was not presented or was not 13 available to them when the Court heard the injunction 14 proceeding in April, based on full briefing and a full day 15 evidentiary record.

16 And it's not just the TCC that's saying that. The 17 United States Trustee's Office says that in their objection.
18 And even the Debtor's friends on the Ad Hoc Committee of 19 Supporting Counsel agree, because in paragraph 6 of their 20 response that they filed yesterday, which is docket 175, the AD 21 Hoc Committee of Supporting Counsel wrote, quote, nothing has 22 changed with respect to the legal and factual predicates that 23 form the basis of the Court's decision to enter the preliminary 24 injunction order, the PI order.

25 So if that's true, Your Honor, and everybody, other

1 than the Debtor agrees that that's true, that there's been no
2 change in circumstances since April, when the Court already 3 entered an order as to these issues, what is the basis for 4 expanding the preliminary injunction order for the next 90 5 days, when this Court is about to hear in two weeks from today,
6 whether this bankruptcy case should even proceed. Whether it 7 passes the gateway of good faith and it should be permitted to 8 proceed.

9 The arguments I heard from Mr. Gordon are essentially 10 twofold. One, the Debtor is, has continued to garner support
11 and progress its plan. I read carefully Your Honor's decision 12 from the bench on April 20th. And Your Honor explained that 13 the focus is on the Debtor's prospects for succeeding and 14 confirming a plan. And in the transcript, Your Honor discussed 15 whether the Debtor is likely to satisfy the gateway of 16 financial distress under the Third Circuit's standards, as 17 being critical to the issue of whether the Debtor can confirm a 18 plan.

19 The Court did not focus on how many purported votes 20 the Debtor had seemed to garner. The Court mused over whether 21 the addition of claims from 40,000 purportedly to 100,000, 22 whether that created financial distress. And Your Honor said 23 maybe, maybe not. The Court then went on to say, well do the 24 change in circumstances under the funding agreement, where 25 previously there were $60 billion of commitment, now there's 30

1 billion. Does that create financial distress. The Court said, 2 maybe, maybe not.

3 Those were the questions the Court was asking itself.
4 And the Court said it has more questions than answers at that 5 point in time. Nothing has changed. The Debtor hasn't 6 provided any better answer to those questions. We're going to 7 hear the answer in two weeks. But nothing has changed that 8 would warrant expanding the preliminary injunction order.

9 If anything, the Debtor's ability to move forward 10 with its plan demonstrates that there is no reason to expand 11 the preliminary injunction order, notwithstanding that lawsuits
12 have been continuing against Old JJCI and New JJCI, now known 13 as Holdco, Kenvue, Janssen. None of that has deterred the 14 Debtor from moving forward with its plan.

15 It's going to be seeking, you know, in a matter of 16 moments approval of its disclosure statement. It's going to be 17 moving -- seeking to move forward with its plan. Nothing 18 that's in the Court's current scope of preliminary injunction 19 order has deterred that. There's no basis for changing that 20 status quo.

21 The other argument is, and here Mr. Gordon just 22 conflates, as the Court has been doing, all of these entities 23 since October of 2021. He repeatedly said we, we answered, we 24 made a motion to dismiss. The Debtor is not a defendant in any 25 of these lawsuits. Janssen and Kenvue are not the Debtor. So

1 the Debtor didn't move to dismiss the Janssen and Kenvue 2 litigation. Janssen and Kenvue, nondebtors, are responding to 3 discovery, responding to motion practice. That's no impact on 4 this Debtor. No basis for altering the status quo.

5 If anything, for the reasons we articulated in our 6 objection, we're not going to repeat them, we didn't want to 7 repeat all the arguments that this Court has heard back in 8 April and then previously in 2021 by other official committees.
9 If anything, the Court should not extend -- should not grant
10 any injunction relief, particularly when the Court recognized 11 that the Debtor bears an uphill battle in establishing that it 12 satisfies the good faith gateway, which it will have to 13 navigate and pass in the next two weeks.

14 So there's no basis in the TCC's view for there to be 15 any injunction relief. But at the very least, if the Court is 16 going to extend injunctive relief from this point in, it should 17 be no broader than the scope of the existing preliminary 18 injunction. And it should be until the point when the Court 19 rules on the motion to dismiss.

20 And we agree with the Court's observations on May 9th 21 which there's always a risk of quoting the Court back to the 22 Court and I apologize for this, but we agree with the Court's 23 observation. On the May 9th transcript at page 117, the Court 24 said, "we have an injunction, a preliminary injunction that's 25 set to expire on June 15th. I have a motion to dismiss,

1 several motions, seven I think that will be tried. And as I've 2 said before, if I grant any one of the seven or all seven, I
3 can't imagine picking and choosing, but I grant the motions 4 then it's all academic, there's no case. If I deny the 5 motions, it doesn't mean the injunction continues, because 6 that's already terminated. I have to affirmatively extend the 7 injunction which requires a factual showing, probably 8 addressing the very concerns that the Third Circuit identified 9 as being problematic from the first go round. In which case 10 there's a new order. And I will tell you right now, that in the 11 event I were to deny the motions to dismiss and extend the 12 injunction, I can't see not certifying it for the appeal to the 13 Circuit at that point. But that's, the Circuit will benefit 14 from the full record. The Court will benefit from a full 15 record. And the Circuit will benefit from not having issues 16 that are moot. There will be a new order entering, extending, 17 possibly extending the injunction, based on an evidentiary
18 record that may be in conjunction with the motion to dismiss.
19 We'll have to discuss that or there won't be anything in front 20 of the Circuit because I will dismiss the case."

21 That makes very good sense.

22 THE COURT: I'm still eloquent. Go ahead.

23 MR. SILVERSTEIN: I didn't read it as well as Your 24 Honor said it at the time. But it makes very good sense to the 25 TCC. If the Court is inclined to extend any injunctive relief

1 at this point at all, it should be no broader than the existing 2 preliminary injunction. It should be extended up until the 3 time that the Court rules on the motion to dismiss, at which 4 point the Court will have a full record that will address both 5 the Debtor's good faith and indubitably all of the issues that 6 the Debtor has raised in its slide presentation. And the Court 7 will have a, at that time, an opportunity to either dismiss the 8 case, at which point the preliminary injunction, as the Court 9 noted, will become moot. Or the Court will deny the motions to 10 dismiss, allow the case to go forward. Have an opportunity to 11 determine whether and on what terms the preliminary injunction 12 should be stayed, extended. And at that point the Court can, 13 if it so chooses as it indicated, certify all of that to the 14 Third Circuit.

15 We think that, if the Court is going to extend 16 injunction relief, which again we don't think is appropriate, 17 but if the Court is going to do that, it should be no longer 18 than the Court's decision on the motion to dismiss. Thank you 19 for hearing from us.

20 THE COURT: Thank you, counsel. Ms. Bielskie.

21 MS. BIELSKIE: Good morning, Your Honor, Lauren 22 Bielskie with the Office of the United States Trustee. I'll be 23 very brief. For the reasons set forth in our initial 24 objection, we urge the Court not to extend the preliminary 25 injunction beyond June 15th. Filing a plan that doesn't even

1 have the support of the Ad Hoc Committee of Supporting Counsel, 2 who the Debtor has been negotiating with for months, does not 3 indicate a likelihood of success.

4 The Debtor will of course still be covered by the 5 automatic stay, if the Debtor believes there are violations of 6 the existing preliminary injunction order or of the automatic 7 stay by virtue of actions against successors there should be a 8 motion alleging those violations, but that's not what we have 9 going on here. The Debtor is asking this Court for additional 10 relief. Thank you, Your Honor.

11 THE COURT: Thank you, Ms. Bielskie. Good morning, 12 Mr. Thompson.

13 MR. THOMPSON: Good morning, Your Honor, as always 14 thank you for your patience and willingness to listen. Okay.
15 So this case has a zero percent chance of success and it's 16 interesting that Mr. Gordon cites Bestwall, a 2019 case opinion 17 that we need to be looking at the potential for reorganization.
18 Bestwall is going nowhere. We've moved to dismiss Bestwall.
19 If it's not dismissed we're going to appeal. And respectfully 20 we're going to win. Because Bestwall is not in distress and 21 neither is LTL. And so the idea that we would be trying to do 22 what's going on in Bestwall is ridiculous.

23 A couple of things that are very important about why 24 there's zero chance of success. LTL agrees, LTL 1.0 agrees 25 that LTL 2.0 is able to pay all current and future claimants in

1 full. Just like the Third Circuit found, Mr. Kim is the chief 2 legal officer. He said, I read to him, this is the part from 3 Judge Ambro's opinion. They amended it. They specifically 4 said they can pay all claimants in full. And Mr. Kim said, 5 yeah, we can.

6 Well, that's directly against the Third Circuit 7 opinion in this case because Mr. Kim admitted that they, 8 there's no difference. Mr. Wuesthoff says the funding is the 9 same. There's no difference. They can pay everybody in full.
10 Well, that's, the Third Circuit ruled on that. They say it's 11 critical for the PI for reorganization purposes. Well, what's 12 the purpose of this reorganization? It's to resolve all the 13 talc claims. That purpose was also reviewed by the Third 14 Circuit and the Third Circuit said even if that were sincere, 15 even if it were sincere, that's not enough reason to permit a 16 Debtor into the safe harbor of bankruptcy in the absence of 17 financial distress.

18 So, so far we have no difference in situation between 19 the first case in terms of being able to pay claimants which 20 the Third Circuit directly found, as well as a purpose of 21 reorganization that the Third Circuit already rejected. Okay,
22 so I'm going to read footnote 16 from the Third Circuit's 23 opinion that was referenced about the PI.

24 Because we arrive at the same result assuming the 25 Bankruptcy Court was correct to determine LTL was responsible

1 to indemnify J&J for all talc costs incurs, we need not opine
2 on this conclusion. Still, we note certain pertinent factors
3 lack full discussion in the Court's analysis of the indemnity
4 agreement relating to Johnson's baby powder in the 1979 5 spinoff.

6 For example, it is not obvious LTL must indemnify J&J
7 for the latter's post 1979 conduct that is the basis of a 8 verdict rendered against it. Skipping the citations. It is 9 also not clear the indemnity should be read to reach punitive 10 damages verdicts against J&J for its own conduct.

11 So Third Circuit says not clear, not obvious. Yet, 12 we have a Debtor in this courtroom demanding to indemnify a 13 nondebtor. The Debtor has a fiduciary duty as do its lawyers
14 to maximize the assets in the Estate. We have a Debtor in here
15 demanding to pay stuff, Third Circuit says it's not clear it 16 has to pay. Now, Mr. Ruckdeschel is going to deal with the New 17 Jersey Law and indemnity more than I will so I won't go into 18 that.

19 And it's all the case because Mr. Kim says it would 20 make no sense for there to be a plan approved in this case if 21 nondebtor, J&J doesn't get an injunction. So we need to quit 22 pretending that there's some difference between the Debtor and 23 J&J. There's not. They're the same. The Debtor does whatever 24 J&J says. The problem is, is that the Debtor has clearly 25 breached its fiduciary duties to the Estate. So they've got to 1 be removed.

2 And that motion is coming if the case isn't dismissed 3 because LTL can't be trusted to mind the store anymore. They 4 gave away $61 billion. And giving away $61 billion will have 5 more of an impact on the Estate than allowing 145 cases to 6 proceed in the discovery phase against Kenvue and Holdco and 7 Janssen, right. This is $450 billion company who has got 8 thousands of lawyers that can represent them.

9 A bigger impact on the Estate is not those lawsuits.
10 It's giving away $61 billion and insisting on indemnifying a 11 $450 billion nonDebtor for liabilities the Third Circuit said 12 it's not clear it has to do. And all of this of course is to 13 benefit J&J who has given away $20 billion since this case was 14 filed. And as it turns out, wrongfully shielded by a 15 preliminary injunction.

16 Substantial majority, I'm not going to cover this too 17 much right now because I think we're going to hear about this 18 more later. But substantial majority of claimants support the 19 plan. We hear that a lot. Substantial progress is being made.
20 Well, who's the Talc claimant? Well, apparently it's anybody 21 with a first name that's represented by a lawyer who would like 22 to get paid. That's what we know about a Talc claim. The 23 first name in a 2019 statement and we don't know what cancer 24 they have.

25 The level of support, what's the support, all of the 1 plaintiff's lawyers that we've deposed that make up the Ad Hoc

2 Group say that PSA's aren't binding. So Mr. Nachawati 3 represents 5,000 clients, won't say what disease they have,
4 doesn't know. Mr. Watts has over 13,000 claimants, air quotes.
5 He doesn't know yet how many of those are ovarian cancer versus 6 nonovarian cancer. Mr. Onder who we deposed last week
7 represents 21,000 claimants. Mr. Onder and Mr. Nachawati both 8 said the plan is a work in progress. Mr. Onder said the plan 9 that's being worked on it's not, this plan that was filed on 10 May 15th, is not going to be the one voted on.

11 Well, so if Mr. Onder and Mr. Nachawati, that's 12 26,000 claimants, so 60,000 minus 26,000 gives 34,000 and 13 that's assuming that these people exist and actually have a 14 cancer that's linked to talc which there's no evidence that 15 they do. And so I will try to reserve other comments that 16 aren't directly relevant to the PI. Thank you.

17 THE COURT: Fair enough, thank you, Mr. Thompson.
18 Anyone else in court. Mr. Placitella.

19 MR. PLACITELLA: You want to go first? Beauty before 20 age.

21 ATTORNEY: No, I'm here for your protection.

22 MR. PLACITELLA: Well, first I want to apologize to 23 the Court for rising out of turn. I think it was a combination 24 of jet lag and looking down at the PowerPoint and seeing a 25 quote from my client's pleadings where I thought there was an

1 agreement not to go forward --

2 THE COURT: Understood.

3 MR. PLACITELLA: -- on our cases. The successor
4 liability issues will be the subject of the hearing on July 5 22nd. On April 18th, the Court declined to enter any type of 6 order related to Kenvue or Janssen in the face of it being put 7 in a pleading the night before with no further evidence. Today 8 we're kind of in the same spot. It wasn't in the pleading the 9 night before but it ended up in a PowerPoint. And there's 10 still not further evidence.

11 There is no evidence before the Court to justify 12 extending the stay, even in a bridge order, as it relates to 13 Kenvue and Janssen. It is worth the Court knowing that while 14 LTL and J&J and affiliates, I guess that's what I call them 15 now, are saying that nothing can go on in State Court they are 16 filing motions to dismiss in violation I guess of the stay.
17 They are asking for hearing dates on their motions in Atlantic 18 County.

19 So it probably could wait until July 22nd. At that 20 time, we'll actually demonstrate to the Court that there's 21 actually a provision in the Texas merger statute that 22 contemplates liability being assigned to corporations that the 23 law permits to have liability like under New Jersey. We'll 24 discuss the McCartney case from the Third Circuit and how that 25 supports our position. And that how LTL has no property rights

1 to the assets of either Kenvue or Janssen that would give them
2 the right to any type of stay under 362(a)(3).

3 So because no further evidence has been demonstrated, 4 I ask the Court not to rule on the substance or comment on the 5 possibilities and just wait for full argument. And I appreciate 6 the Court indulgence in dealing with my personal issues.

7 THE COURT: Fair enough, thank you. Counsel?

8 MR. GOLOMB: Good morning, Your Honor, Richard Golomb
9 for TCC Member Brandi Carl. I just want to address one point 10 and that is the alleged heavy burden that has been placed on 11 the Debtor by the filing of these 174 new cases in Middlesex 12 and Atlantic County. There are a number of motions to amend.
13 There are a number of new complaints that have been filed with 14 motions to dismiss. There are agreements both in Middlesex 15 County on the motions to amend and in Atlantic County on the 16 motion to dismiss because the motion to dismiss has already 17 been ruled on in Middlesex County. It has been denied.

18 There are motions, there are agreements, that one 19 motion to amend will be heard, one motion to dismiss will be 20 heard and the balance of the cases will be controlled by that 21 order. There is no, there is no extra burden. Thank you.

22 THE COURT: Thank you. Mr. Hansen, good morning, 23 still morning.

24 MR. HANSEN: Good morning, Your Honor, Kris Hansen 25 with Paul Hastings on behalf of the Ad Hoc Committee, kind of 1 missed my turn earlier so try to be brief, Your Honor. I 2 really just want to respond to a few points that have been 3 made. There was an allegation from the TCC that said that the 4 Ad Hoc Committee said nothing changed and therefore our support 5 is limited to the prior injunction and not the current 6 injunction which seeks to expand it a bit.

7 That's not true. What we meant by nothing has 8 changed, which I'm sure Your Honor understands, is the 9 compelling reasons that the Court found with the injunction in 10 place in the first place still exist. You are running a 11 process. You're looking at the motion to dismiss. You have a 12 plan on file. You may rule on a motion to set the disclosure 13 statement for approval at some point. You're hearing lots of 14 things that are happening in this case.

15 There's a motion to terminate exclusivity, on all of 16 those things need to proceed here in this Court with the 17 collateral attack that's presented by the actions that are 18 taking place in State Court. To the extent that the Debtor 19 believes and we do, that successor liability claims and actions 20 against affiliates will also present a similar collateral 21 attack, then the stay should be extended and it should be put 22 in for a period of time to allow this Court to do what it needs
23 to do and adjudicate what's before the Court.

24 The US Trustee also made a point that said the Ad Hoc 25 Committee doesn't even support the plan any longer. That's not

1 true, Your Honor. I've said repeatedly in front of the Court, 2 we've said in our pleadings and the Debtors have said it as 3 well. We had a term sheet that was part of the plan support
4 agreement. When you take a term sheet then you go to document 5 that in the form of a plan and trust distribution procedures, 6 et cetera, there are going to be areas of disagreement. That's 7 the devil in the details. That's how it always works. That's 8 in any corporate transaction that happens in connection with 9 any plan of reorganization that's drafted between parties and 10 it's no different than the myriad of cases where you have a 11 term sheet with a PSA that gets filed and everybody needs to 12 bring that to conclusion.

13 So we do expect the Debtors to file an amended plan
14 that has the full support of our Committee and we do support 15 the plan that's on file. We're just working through it 16 together, to get it to a point where we believe it can go out 17 and be solicited and go to the claimants. So with that, Your 18 Honor, we support the injunction.

19 THE COURT: Thank you, Mr. Hansen. I believe that 20 takes care of those in court. Mr. Ruckdeschel.

21 MR. RUCKDESCHEL: Thank you, Your Honor, let me get 22 this hand thing down. Jonathan Ruckdeschel on behalf of Paul 23 Crouch. Judge, I appreciate the indulgence in allowing me to 24 appear by Zoom as always, and I kind of feel a little bit like 25 Yogi Berra, right. It's deja vu all over again. I filed I

1 believe the first pleading for Mr. Crouch June 22nd last year,
2 opposing the extension of the preliminary injunction in LTL 1.
3 And, and I want to start with that because there was something 4 said today that's new, right. And I was thinking this is all 5 the same old nonsense.

6 But there was something new today because last year, 7 when I appeared before the Court I presented the Court the 8 controlling New Jersey Law that relates to indemnity of a 9 parties' independent liability. And let's just set the stage
10 once more. Pre-1979, LTL's predecessor doesn't exist. There 11 can be no claim legally or factually that anything that 12 happened pre-1979 is anything other than Johnson & Johnson's 13 independent nonderivative liability because it was directly 14 running the talc business. So 1979.

15 So I came before the Court and I said Your Honor, 16 under controlling New Jersey law and I cited Cozzi versus Owens
17 Corning Fiber Glass 164 A. 2nd 69, Mantilla versus North
18 Carolina Mall Associates 7070 A. 2nd 1144 from 2001. And there 19 are a host of other cases. Under New Jersey Law which controls 20 this matter, right, the 1979 indemnity agreement is signed
21 between two New Jersey corporations. The signature block 22 reflects that it's actually signed physically in New Jersey and 23 there is no law choice provision that says some other law
24 controls. So New Jersey Law undoubtedly controls.

25 And New Jersey Law requires specific language if you

1 are going to indemnify somebody for their own tortious actions.
2 And the case law -- that was ignored. The Debtor didn't 3 respond to my argument then. The Debtor didn't produce any New 4 Jersey Law contrary then or now. So what's new? And I raised 5 these cases again in the preliminary injunction argument
6 earlier in LTL 2.

7 For the first time today, I believe I heard a 8 citation. I heard a citation to the Bouton case, 423 F. 2nd 9 643, from the Third Circuit and the Bippus case from the 10 District of New Jersey, 437 F. Supp. 104.

11 And this is the first response that we've gotten.
12 There was a slide. It said we're going to show you why we're 13 responsible for indemnifying and why the contract covers it and 14 there was pre 79 and post 79 and punitive damages. They never 15 got to punitive damages and we'll come back to that. So while 16 I'm here, I pull up Bouton. And Bouton specifically applies 17 New York Law. There is, there is a specific discussion "It is 18 undisputed that the contract, although the subject of 19 negotiations is of a general form, oh, I'm sorry. The Litton 20 contract provides it shall be construed and interpreted 21 according to New York law. It's undisputed the contract 22 although subject to negotiations is the general form originally 23 prepared by counsel for Litton. Litton's three contentions
24 must therefore be determined under New York Law."

25 So who cares? All right. New Jersey Law controls

1 this issue. And Bippus doesn't say what law it's applying. It 2 only cites Bouton, all right. So no response to the 3 controlling New Jersey cases that say you have to have specific 4 not general, right. So we hear from Mr. Gordon. Oh, this is 5 broad general language and it's assuming everything. So what.
6 New Jersey Law controls. New Jersey Law requires specific 7 language, not broad language, not general language, specific 8 language if you're going to do this.

9 And I know Your Honor is curious about State Law
10 these days because you made some PowerPoint slides Power Point 11 slides and Whittaker Clark, Whittaker Clark argument and I only 12 read the transcript but you know the discussion there that 13 State Law implications with respect to receiver, that's the 14 same issue here. New Jersey State Law controls this issue.
15 They haven't cited any of it because they're wrong. They can 16 never, never enforce the 1979 agreement over objection, right.

17 And so what they're doing is well, we'll just agree 18 to do it. Post 1979, so now post 1979 Your Honor found that 19 the contract was ambiguous. The Third Circuit said it's by no 20 means clear, right, that they have any indemnity obligation
21 post 79. And the response to that from the Debtor through Mr.
22 Gordon is I have no idea why the Third Circuit did that. Well, 23 who cares? The Third Circuit said what it said and whether Mr.
24 Gordon understands why they did it or not, that's what they 25 said and nothing has changed about that issue.

1 They have independent nonderivative liability and you
2 need only look at the verdicts that have been entered in states
3 where there is apportionment of fault, right, several liability
4 where liability is assigned to Johnson & Johnson and a 5 different amount of liability is assigned to JJCI. That's 6 their own liability. It's not derivative because in 7 apportionment of fault states you're only responsible for your 8 own fault. That has happened repeatedly. They have their own 9 nonderivative liability.

10 And then punitive damages, right. I find the 11 punitive damage reference on the slide to be most confusing 12 because Johnson & Johnson is the party in the leading case on 13 this issue in New Jersey. Aetna versus Johnson & Johnson which 14 we've cited in the papers to the Court before that says you 15 cannot indemnify as a matter of public policy conduct that is 16 reckless, willful, wanton, right. We're not going to recognize 17 that in New Jersey.

18 And as the Court knows, J&J has been repeatedly held 19 J&J, not JJCI, not LTL, J&J has been repeatedly held 20 responsible for punitive damages. There cannot be an indemnity 21 there. So there's no right to indemnity, period. And the 22 citation to New York, the Court applying New York Law is 23 inappropriate and it doesn't reflect the undisputed facts in 24 this case and it reflects, Your Honor, the casual disregard of 25 the facts that's demonstrated by the Debtor over and over in

1 this case and I know I've been harping on this a lot very 2 recently but it has happened again right there, right? And 3 we've got a plan forward, right. We've got to path forward.

4 Well, that was a bill of nonsense too. The plan
5 support agreements, we've taken the depositions now. Mr. Onder
6 testified to me last Thursday that he didn't have enough 7 information as of the plan support agreement to decide whether 8 he could recommend it to his clients. He said the information
9 wasn't present, right. Mr. Kim testified in your courtroom
10 that LTL wasn't going to enforce the plan support agreements.
11 They weren't binding, right.

12 Mr. Onder, again, we don't have the transcript yet
13 but Mr. Onder testified last Thursday because there was no 14 value given for the nonovarian cancer claims, the quit pay 15 claims under the term sheet, he had no way to tell whether he 16 could recommend that to his clients or not. So Mr. Onder may 17 have generally supported the proposition that I would like to 18 have a settlement and he may generally support the proposition 19 that he doesn't care if it's in bankruptcy or not. But the 20 suggestion that Mr. Onder at the time of signing the plan 21 support agreement was supporting the terms in the term sheet 22 it's rejected by Mr. Hunter right. And Mr. Nachawati I believe 23 testified to the same.

24 So now let's look at the May 15th plan before Your 25 Honor because again, there, Judge, we got a path forward.

1 We're walking down the path forward. Mr. Onder testified
2 unequivocally last Thursday. I'm never going to recommend the 3 May 15th plan to my clients because it has been agreed already 4 that it's never going to be submitted. He said that. He said
5 we've already got a number of things. You got to move past 6 that and I'll never have to recommend that to my clients. I'll 7 never have to even decide if I can recommend it to my clients
8 because we've moved past it. It will never be submitted.

9 And I found that extremely surprising, Judge.
10 Because the Debtor has never come to the Court and never come 11 to us or the TCC as far as I know and told, or the US Trustee
12 and said hey, I know we submitted this plan on May 15th but you 13 know the guy with 21,000 claims, more than anyone else has 14 already agreed with us that we're never going to submit it for 15 a vote. We never heard any of that. So path forward, not 16 according to Mr. Onder's sworn testimony.

17 And that's a problem. That's a problem, they 18 continue to prey on Your Honor's good faith that maybe if we 19 let this ride out they'll reach a resolution, right. And 20 that's admirable for the Court. I've said this to you before.
21 I'm delighted that you have faith in the bankruptcy system.
22 That's what bankruptcy Judges should have. But your trust is 23 being abused and it's being abused over and over and over 24 again.

25 We're farther away now than we were on April 4th from

1 a path forward because they've lost 21,000 votes from Mr. Onder
2 with respect to the May 15th plan. Mr. Nachawati says it can't 3 figure it out yet, right. And you've had all the unified 4 support coming in from people all over, different 5 constituencies, the State Attorney General, the US Trustee, Mr.
6 Crouch, Monnie Rackel (phonetic), the Committee, right. And 7 this all comes back to the question then of well, you know 8 what's the reasonable likelihood of success and with the 9 standard for injunction, the reasonable likelihood for success
10 here is not the question of whether the Debtor LTL could ever 11 come to a resolution of LTL's liability by itself. Because 12 with respect to LTL, right, J&J is just another unsecured 13 creditor at best, right.

14 So what they're trying to do is get J&J out. Mr. Kim 15 was absolutely clear about this in his deposition as Mr.
16 Thompson said. Mr. Kim admitted over and over there wouldn't 17 be any point in doing this if J&J wasn't getting out, right.
18 And the question with respect to reasonable likelihood of 19 success, Your Honor, is whether this Court could ever grant 20 J&J, this massively solvent company that gives away a billion 21 dollars a month, a channeling injunction or the equivalent of a 22 channeling injunction. Because they decide they want to pay in 23 some money. And get out for their own independent liability.
24 And the answer to that is no. There's no reasonable likelihood 25 of that. It's theoretically possible that if LTL could show

1 that LTL qua LTL was in financial distress and that LTL had a 2 legitimate purpose in bankruptcy because it was overwhelmed
3 that LTL could theoretically put it together and get its own 4 liability out in bankruptcy.

5 But are you ever going to be able to get J&J out?
6 No. And that's the question for preliminary injunctive relief
7 with respect to J&J that has to be answered. And Your Honor, I 8 submit to you that it is a head thing to say well, we're making 9 progress. We've got a path forward. Well, if you just let it 10 ride out a little longer, we might be able to get people to 11 agree. That's not the analysis that's relevant to this and 12 with that, Your Honor, I thank you for your indulgence and I'll 13 be quiet.

14 THE COURT: Thank you, counsel. Mr. Maimon, and I
15 think I've got it pronounced this time.

16 MR. MAIMON: Yes, thank you, and I appreciate Mr.
17 Satterley's promising never to call me late for dinner. I
18 would like to follow up on two areas, Your Honor, and I won't 19 be repetitive. First of all, with regard to Mr. Satterley
20 asked me to raise three points with regard to the Eagles'
21 matter which I think have been obfuscated by the Debtor's 22 presentation.

23 Number one, just so it's clear to the Court, LTL 24 unlike the Valadez case, LTL is not a party defendant in the 25 Eagles' case. Mr. Satterley has abided by the automatic stay

1 and has not sued and has not even sought relief from the 2 automatic stay to add LTL as a defendant in the Eagles' case.
3 It was only Johnson & Johnson and the retailers. And 4 therefore, pursuant to the terms that Your Honor put in place
5 in your April 20th preliminary injunction order, there's no
6 problem with the Eagles' case unless you expand the injunction 7 like they're seeking to do.

8 The Eagles' case qualifies under California law as a 9 preference case, as the Valadez case did and Judge Seabolt has 10 set it down for July 24th. Your Honor knows from your 11 experience with the Valadez case that Judge Seabolt is quick on 12 his feet. He can adjust trial dates to accommodate the stay 13 that Your Honor is putting in place for a period of time and 14 therefore there's no reason to put out a 90 day stay on trials 15 with regard to it.

16 Finally, with regard to the issue of prejudice, there 17 is not only the normal prejudice that Mr. Eagles and his family 18 face by having their day in court denied to them, but there is 19 an extra prejudice that is being intended by LTL and J&J and 20 the retailers in seeking the stay, because the plan that was 21 set forth, by LTL provides that somebody like Mr. Eagles who 22 has additional asbestos exposure in addition to his J&J 23 exposure gets nothing under the plan, gets zero. And therefore 24 if the trial goes forward against the non-J&J defendants, which 25 it has to under the preference statute, and the jury allocates

1 fault to J&J and its affiliates which it must under California 2 law, thereby reducing the judgment that the Eagles family gets, 3 J&J gets a free ride. They never have to pay a penny and the 4 Eagles family suffers.

5 And so this is just an attempt to use the legitimate 6 State Law that restricts a plaintiff's ability to recover and 7 now extend a stay under well, we're just trying to do the same 8 thing over again to the detriment.

9 That brings me to the issue of the indemnify. And 10 Mr. Ruckdeschel talked about the indemnity issue but the only 11 other thing I'll add is that even if there's some, even if 12 there is some theory of indemnity that's valid, which there 13 isn't, it only makes Johnson & Johnson and the other protected 14 parties nonsecured creditors against LTL. That's all they are.

15 And so they have no preference over the victims.
16 They have no preference. The Court expressed in its April 20th 17 ruling on the PI order its view regarding the applicability of 18 the automatic stay under 362 to nondebtors, J&J, the retailers.
19 And Your Honor said I believe that it extends the stay that I'm 20 going to, giving my injunction order, I am going to allow for 21 causes of action to be brought, and I'm going to allow for 22 discovery to go forward and I'm going to allow for everything 23 up until trial and I'll get to the June 15th deadline, but 24 that's what I'm going to allow. And so other nonparties, other 25 people who they seek to have protected parties shouldn't be put

1 in a better posture than J&J and the retailers and I think here 2 specifically with regard to Kenvue and Janssen and Holdco. And 3 I'll get to the adjourned theory in a moment but what 4 distinguishes those and specifically Kenvue from J&J or the 5 protected parties or the retailers, is that there's no claim 6 that JJCI or LTL indemnifies Kenvue.

7 In fact, the undisputed and unquestionable evidence,
8 and it's in the SEC filing so you have to say that there either 9 a violation of SEC regs or they told the truth. The truth is, 10 is that the indemnity for Kenvue comes from J&J not from LTL.

11 The concept of giving a bridge is another attempt to 12 manipulate the system here and to manipulate the rights. We 13 relied and we were all on the phone call when Mr. Placitella 14 got up late at night in France because they were trying to pull 15 a fast one with one of these shortened time applications. We 16 relied on the representation by the Debtor and it's reflected 17 in the TCC opposition brief, that the issues regarding Kenvue, 18 Janssen and Holdco would be dealt with at a later date. And 19 therefore we didn't file anything with regard to that.

20 The Committee on purpose didn't file anything on that 21 and now Mr. Gordon as a matter of just matter of fact, we just 22 want that bridge order and we'll talk about it today when 23 nobody has had the due process opportunity to raise the issues.
24 And so the only issue of prejudice that they raised in their 25 papers and up until now is what they called the prejudice of 1 Apex (phonetic) depositions that were being ordered and they 2 would like an opportunity to deal with that.

3 Mr. Placitella and everybody involved says we'll put 4 up, I'll put off all depositions and therefore that prejudice
5 isn't there. They said that Kenvue never manufactured or sold
6 talc in the United States. We will be able to show Your Honor 7 that that's false also. But that should really not be here and 8 trying to slip in the Kenvue and Janssen and Holdco bridge
9 really hurts, does tremendous harm because as Mr. Golomb said 10 there are proceedings that are not impacting the Debtor at all 11 going on in State Courts. Again the indemnity for Kenvue is 12 born by J&J directly, by contract obligation, by J&J to Kenvue 13 and LTL has nothing to do with that.

14 But yet, conflating everything Mr. Gordon says the 15 burden put on us by these motions to dismiss in Kenvue and 16 Janssen. The time, the money that we have to expend and the 17 prejudice to us and we need to stay focused. Well, LTL is not 18 a party to those actions. The plaintiffs have honored the 19 Court's ruling of the automatic stay, have not brought LTL in.
20 LTL has no indemnity obligation and therefore LTL is not 21 staying any if you believe, if you will indulge the fiction 22 that LTL is independent, and that Jones Day is actually working 23 for LTL, neither Jones Day nor LTL are spending a time or a 24 minute on anything having to do with Janssen or Kenvue in the 25 State courts and therefore there's no time, there's no money,

1 there's no prejudice and certainly there's no prejudice that 2 should outweigh the ability of these cancer victims to continue 3 in their actions.

4 There continues to be, Your Honor, and I have two 5 more points to make. There continues to be the 6 misrepresentation by LTL and it was done again today, contrary 7 to the sworn testimony of the lawyers who signed the PSA's that 8 they have claimant support. Each of these lawyers who have 9 testified who signed PSA's have stated unequivocally that they 10 cannot say that their clients support any plan at this point.
11 They haven't advised their clients about it and their clients 12 haven't weighed in on it. They haven't made recommendations to 13 their client. But the insistence in court proceeding after 14 court proceeding to allege that there is "claimant support" 15 when all you have at best, and we know that that's not true 16 either, is lawyer support shouldn't be countenanced.

17 I'll end with this, Your Honor. I know from having 18 reviewed again the transcript of the April 20th hearing and 19 watching that as Your Honor issued the ruling, that it weighs 20 heavy on this Court's conscience the denial of the Seventh 21 Amendment rights of cancer victims for so long. The profundity
22 of that prejudice and that denial grows by the day. And yet, 23 the Debtor is here seeking an expansion of that preliminary 24 injunction and an extension of its time needlessly.

25 And I'll end by reading its opposition to the Third

1 Circuit Court of Appeals with regard to the preliminary 2 injunction. In opposing the writ of mandamus that 3 characterized the writ as an extraordinary remedy reserved for 4 cases in which lower court actions amount to a judicial 5 usurpation of power, "The Bankruptcy Court's modest decision 6 here to grant the preliminary record injunction lasting only 60
7 days and barring only trials, and to decline to sua sponte 8 dismiss the case is a far cry from judicial usurpation."

9 Furthermore, they told the Third Circuit in page 13
10 of their opposition to the mandamus. Unlike an LTL's first 11 bankruptcy case, (and other asbestos bankruptcies) the 12 Bankruptcy Court issued only an extremely limited by the Debtor
13 stay extension and injunction. It stays only trials and only 14 for 60 days. That's what LTL said. Thus, the Court found the 15 talc claimants will not be harmed. That's what they said.

16 They seek a 150 percent time extension of the trial 17 ban. They seek an extension and it's typical of this Debtor to 18 speak out of both sides of its mouth. Once, when it's arguing 19 to the Third Circuit that you don't have to do anything right 20 now. We're very limited and we're on a very short time period.
21 But now when they come in front of Your Honor, that's out the 22 window and they're arguing for an extension in scope and an 23 extension in time. The Court should not grant it. I 24 appreciate the opportunity to argue.

25 THE COURT: Thank you, Mr. Maimon. Mr. Gordon.

1 MR. GORDON: Greg Gordon, Your Honor, Jones Day on 2 behalf of the Debtor. So there was a lot said on a number of 3 subjects and I'm not even going to remotely attempt to address
4 all the things. But I do want to address the overriding tone
5 that is being presented to Your Honor that we're being 6 basically duplicitous, talking out of both sides of our mouth.
7 We haven't done this. We haven't done that. We've 8 misrepresented this and misrepresented that. That is all 9 blatantly false.

10 And the characterizations that I'm hearing of things 11 are almost breathtaking. The way the spin is coming with 12 respect to snippets of depositions which lawyers are referring 13 to and suggestions that the plan is falling apart. I mean for 14 Mr. Ruckdeschel to say that we're, we've gone backwards since 15 the last hearing based literally on mischaracterizations to me 16 is just shocking.

17 And you know speaking of Mr. Ruckdeschel, he's so 18 adamant that he's correct and that we're wrong, and he says so 19 many things that are just incorrect. For him to say that for 20 the first time we presented cases on the issue of the indemnity 21 is just wrong. I mean we presented those cases back when we 22 were in North Carolina. They've been part of the briefing from 23 the beginning. I mean even worse Your Honor, for him to stand 24 here and say what New Jersey Law applies under governing cases 25 and to suggest that it requires, those cases require some

1 specific language on the indemnity, that's not what those cases 2 say.

3 I mean those cases say that it's, here's the one, the 4 Mantilla case. "As a matter of well settled legal doctrine, it 5 is clear that indemnity provision is to be construed in 6 accordance with the rules for construction of contracts 7 generally and hence that the judicial task is to ascertain the 8 intention of the parties." That's what that case says.

9 The other cases he cites say the exact same thing.
10 That he's representing in this tirade about the conduct of the 11 Debtor that we're the ones that are misstating the law, that 12 we're ignoring cases that are right on point, cases that he has 13 misstating what those cases hold.

14 And you know Mr. Thompson, same thing, I mean 15 completely mischaracterizing the record and obviously lots of 16 hyperbole. And of course lots of focus on issues that has, 17 they're just raising points that are not even relevant like Mr.
18 Maimon saying that well, there is no indemnity of Kenvue and 19 Janssen. Therefore by the Debtor's own admission there's no 20 basis for any kind of stay relief. Well, that's not our 21 position. He's just making an argument about something that we 22 haven't even presented to Your Honor.

23 But having said all that, what's most striking to me
24 about everything we've heard today, and it probably, Your Honor 25 probably has the same reaction. There's like a complete lack

1 of meeting of the minds as to even what the requested relief 2 is. And there were statements by TCC counsel about the 3 proposed form of order and criticism of the language and 4 suggestions that some of the language is overly broad. But I 5 tried to be clear in our presentation what we're seeking. And 6 what we're seeking is not what you're hearing the other side 7 characterize the relief as.

8 And so we're in this very odd situation or at least I
9 am where I hear points the parties are making and I'm thinking 10 we don't contest those points. And fundamentally we're not 11 asking for a flat out injunction against all these lawsuits.
12 I've said it now two or three times in my presentation. That 13 just is being ignored.

14 So I don't know what to say about that. To me every 15 argument utterly ignored the fact that Your Honor said the 16 automatic stay remains in place. And in my mind there's two 17 separate issues. There's the injunction and there's the 18 automatic stay. And on the injunction just to be clear, we're 19 not seeking an expansion of that. We heard what Your Honor 20 said. You limited it to trials only. We obviously wanted a 21 broader injunction like that but that's where we are. We are 22 not asking Your Honor to revisit that issue.

23 But what we are asking Your Honor to do is to enforce 24 your ruling that the automatic stay remain in place and it's 25 only for that limited purpose that we've asked for this other

1 relief.

2 So having said all that, we're happy to sit down with 3 the other side to work on the form of the order if they think 4 the language is overly broad and it actually would have Your 5 Honor ordering things that are beyond the scope of the relief 6 we're seeking.

7 But again I've tried to be clear that we're just 8 asking for a 90 day extension of the existing injunction.
9 There's no inconsistency in terms of what we said to the Third 10 Circuit and what we're saying here. But in addition, because 11 these other issues have come up in these cases which in our 12 view are clear violations of the automatic stay. We're simply 13 asking Your Honor to enforce the automatic stay as well.

14 THE COURT: All right, thank you all. I've heard 15 enough argument, heard plenty. I will keep you all in suspense 16 for a few hours until I address all of the issues for today's 17 calendar at one time. Since I learned so much from listening 18 to you all. We're going to take a break now. But let me ask 19 this. So we're done with the preliminary injunction and the 20 bridge order issues. Do you want to, what's your suggestions?
21 Do you want to take a slightly early lunch break now and just 22 come back and knock those two matters off, or do you want to go 23 through, probably the issue of the Ad Hoc reimbursement would 24 be more quickly addressed than exclusivity and the disclosure 25 statements. Thoughts?

1 MR. MOLTON: Good almost afternoon, Your Honor. I
2 see we're two minutes to noon or something like that. So in 3 any event, David Molton of Brown Rudnick counsel to the 4 official Talc Claimants Committee along with co-counsel. I 5 think we appreciate a break with lunch now and then we would 6 all be energized to move this, move this train to its 7 conclusion today.

8 THE COURT: All right. Mr. Gordon, concur, make 9 sense?

10 MR. GORDON: My preference would have been to keep 11 going and get exclusivity out of the way before lunch but I'll 12 defer to Your Honor on that.

13 THE COURT: Well, I know you all. If you get your 14 lunch at three o'clock, that may work so --

15 MR. RUCKDESCHEL: In that regard, I would ask the 16 Court's indulgence to read three sentences from the Mantilla 17 decision given the representation of Mr. Gordon that I was 18 misrepresenting it, literally three sentences.

19 THE COURT: No. No, you're done.

20 MR. RUCKDESCHEL: Understood.

21 THE COURT: I'm sure we'll squeeze it in somewhere
22 along the way over the next few weeks. So let's take a break 23 folks. Let's try to be back 40 minutes should be enough.
24 You're not going anywhere. 12:30. Thank you.

25 (Court stands in recess @ 11:50:58 a.m.)

1 (Court resumes in session @ 12:36:41 p.m.)

2 THE COURT: Okay. Let's start up once again and I
3 believe we're going to move to the committee's exclusivity
4 motion. I guess we're also after that, Mr. Gordon will address
5 the Debtor's disclosure statement hearing?

6 MR. GORDON: Yes, Your Honor.

7 THE COURT: Good afternoon.

8 MR. MOLTON: Good afternoon Your Honor, good 9 afternoon everyone, may it please the Court. David Molton of 10 Brown Rudnick, co-counsel to the Tort Talc Claimants Committee.
11 Judge, I don't want to disappoint you. We're not going to be 12 as long as some of the people that were in front of me. I'm 13 not going to be repeating the case law and arguments that are 14 in the briefs.

15 Your Honor saw our motion. Your Honor saw the 16 Debtor's and the Ad Hoc Committee's response and Your Honor saw 17 our reply yesterday. I believe the authorities and arguments 18 are well thought, well put forward and Your Honor will have an 19 opportunity to address them. So I'm not going to be case law 20 and indeed on this motion right now under these circumstances.
21 I don't think there's, should be any dispute as to what the 22 case law is and at the end of the day, this comes down to Your 23 Honor's decision making and Your Honor's discretion based on 24 the facts in front of you.

25 I want to caveat one thing and then say one other

1 thing. Needless to say, Judge, is we put a big black box on 2 every one of our papers dealing with things like plan and 3 exclusivity. We're primed to the motion to dismiss that's 4 coming up. We believe this case is a bad faith filing for all 5 the reasons you've seen in the various papers. I need not 6 repeat them here. And based on Third Circuit precedent we 7 believe there's little way for Your Honor to do anything but 8 dismiss this case as a bad faith filing.

9 Be that as it will, we have no idea what Your Honor 10 will or won't do. And this case may go forward. And 11 according, the Committee needs to go forward at that point with 12 it if it does. But our position is of course without prejudice
13 and everything I say here is without prejudice to the motions.

14 I do want to make one comment. Other people have 15 said it and I think it's really important. I know Mr. Gordon 16 gets very upset when he believes people are making 17 mischaracterizations. He uses the term offended and shocking.
18 One of the first things Mr. Gordon did today and said today as 19 he stood up here again and I think one of the prior folks who 20 had the roster mentioned. He said a substantial "number of 21 claimants" has supported the Debtor's plan or is already 22 supporting the Debtor's plan.

23 Mr. Gordon knows that's wrong. Mr. Gordon knows 24 that's inaccurate. Mr. Gordon knows that every plaintiff 25 lawyer who was asked that question said no, that's not the

1 case. I may have signed a PSA, plan support agreement that I
2 would recommend a plan that's consistent with this term sheet.
3 But to continue to use this public, public platform to state
4 what he knows is untrue, I would urge him to stop that. We'll 5 deal with all the issues vigorously but also accurately. So I 6 just want to put that down.

7 Judge, we believe this issue, and I think I've been 8 waiting for my turn at this roster podium for a year by the way 9 on this issue. We believe today is a pivotal day and Your 10 Honor's rulings here regarding both exclusivity as well as 11 disclosure statement and timing are going to be pivotal for how 12 this case proceeds. Ms. Cyganowski will be talking about the 13 disclosure statement issues and scheduling after Mr. Gordon
14 speaks. You know it's the Committee's belief that nothing 15 should go forward until Your Honor at the very least makes a 16 decision on the motion to dismiss.

17 But those are my preambles and I'm sorry they took as 18 long as they did and now we'll get to the meat of the matter.
19 We believe it's ironic, Judge, wholly ironic that both the 20 Debtor and the Ad Hoc Committee after 20 months, going on 21 21 months in this case, and I say because I'm not counting those 22 two hours and 11 minutes, it's the same case asking for the 23 same relief. We think it's ironic that they're opposing the 24 Official Committee's request for the end of exclusivity. We've 25 heard from day one, they came in here in front of Your Honor,

1 Judge, all we want is a vote, Your Honor. That's all we want 2 is a vote. It turns out that all they want is a vote on their 3 proposed plan. That's all they want. They don't want 4 competition. They don't want discussion. They don't want to 5 good faith decision making by the claimants as to where is a 6 better avenue if this case proceeds to a conclusion.

7 And what they want is a vote, a single vote like in 8 those countries that have one party and one candidate for a 25 9 year limited fund capped, the sole purpose of which is to give 10 a get out of jail card "resolve all talc for all time", 11 "resolve all talc for all time" to the most solvent corporation
12 in the United States that can pay full value to every claimant 13 today, today. Not 25 years from now but today.

14 And what are we know about this plan that has been 15 proposed? Well, I heard a little bit of Mr. Watts and I'm not 16 going to say I'm quoting him specifically, but I think what he 17 said is he has no idea what talc claimants will actually be 18 paid under the point system, it's a point system their grid, 19 folks would look at it and say those look like dollars, but 20 they're not dollars, they're points. And they're points that 21 could be worth five cents, 10 cents. The Debtor says maybe 22 more than a dollar. I don't think so.

23 But he has no idea what those Debtors, what those 24 claimants, what his clients today will actually be paid. And 25 what's the claim pool? That's another question. Well, Mr.

1 Watts whether I don't know if he has got 13, 15, 17,000, my 2 recollection of his deposition he has no idea what the disease 3 type is of his clients. He's waiting to receive diagnoses and 4 documents and all this other stuff but he wasn't able to 5 testify under oath just yesterday, I think, seven o'clock in 6 the morning Eastern time, four o'clock in the morning Pacific 7 time. No idea.

8 Mr. Onder, what did he say about his 21,000, big 9 number, I mean they touted it, they touted it. Well, he thinks 10 9,000 are ovarian cancer that's connected to a Daubert finding 11 that would allow him to proceed if they went to court in front 12 of a jury. I believe he said 9,000 are not connected to a 13 Daubert greenlight adjudication. And I think Mr. Murdica said 14 that J&J never in its history has settled one of those cases by 15 the way.

16 And there's 3,000 I believe he said that he has no 17 idea what they are. Maybe I got the numbers a little wrong but 18 I think for the purpose of this presentation close is close 19 enough.

20 We heard, you know Debtor has known that the TCC has 21 been examining a plan. A plan that's based on their own 22 creations, meaning their funding agreement for some time. We 23 did it last part one and we're here in part two. Their 24 response to us, well, there's no plan. Well, Judge, you know, 25 we have to be very careful in this case as Your Honor knows

1 because if we put out a plan without Your Honor allowing us to 2 do so or even a term sheet, I can clearly know what will be 3 coming from me and others on the Committee so we play it very 4 careful under the circumstances of the case where the Debtor
5 allegedly on behalf of its talc claimants sues its talc
6 claimants experts in federal court.

7 So in any event, do we have a plan? Yes. They kind
8 of know what it is. We actually gave Your Honor a little pre-v 9 yesterday. It's not that hard of a plan. It's a confirmable 10 plan and it's one that has two aspects of it, two aspects of 11 it. And you know I'm not here to go through the plan. If Your 12 Honor wants it, we're going to urge Your Honor to allow us to 13 file it. Whatever Your Honor does with scheduling at least 14 allow us to file it so the talc world can see it and start 15 discussing it in the context of what the Debtor has offered 16 after 20 months.

17 But Mr. Goodman here of my office if Your Honor wants 18 today, and I don't know if Your Honor wants it, is prepared to 19 go through a dep that kind of gets in more detail. The plan is 20 two components. It has got a component that utilizes the 21 funding agreement and utilizes the funding agreement, the 22 present funding agreement, the 2023 funding agreement. But it 23 also has a toggle, Judge, and it's going to have a toggle when 24 Your Honor allows us to publicize it, to file it, it's going to 25 have a toggle to allow Johnson & Johnson the defendants through

1 way of a structured dismissal by Your Honor to take advantage 2 of architecture they know exists that could exist outside of 3 bankruptcy that would provide "the resolution of all talc for 4 all time including futures". They would get, they would be 5 done with it.

6 It would give them that opportunity to do that.
7 Whether they will or won't is going to be up to them but we 8 would give that to them and clearly from our perspective the 9 values with respect to both, both Toggle A and Toggle B of our 10 plan we believe will garner significant creditor support, huge 11 creditor support because these are real numbers we're going to 12 be dealing with based on real values.

13 But I'm going to deal instead right now, Your Honor, 14 and if Your Honor wants to hear about the other, the toggle to 15 the structured dismissal, we've got, we can talk about it but 16 what I'm going to be dealing with his since that's a voluntary 17 alternative, I'm going to be dealing with our bottom up plan.
18 It's a bottom up plan. It's not a cap. It's not a capped 19 fund. It's not a pot. This is a full value case with the most 20 well off company in America. And I said if they wanted to 21 could pay every one of these talc claims full value tomorrow 22 and not miss a beat.

23 It's a full value case for all claimants whether it's 24 ovarian cancer, mesothelioma, third party payor, the States, we 25 also offer and will offer or propose to offer real dollar quick

1 pays to others but those quick pays will be for real dollars, 2 not for points.

3 It's funded, Your Honor, by the funding agreement, 4 the 2023 funding agreement. It's back stopped if necessary by 5 a resurrection of the 2021 funding agreement, the avoidance
6 claims will go to the trust, those rights will go to the trust.
7 The enforceability, because I know the Debtors in their 8 opposition yesterday and their objection who know where we're 9 going, said well, we don't have to pay. Johnson & Johnson 10 doesn't have to pay.

11 That issue and we would be dealing with Section C-1 12 of the funding agreement not C-2, you know and relying on 13 established Third Circuit precedent like Federal Mogul, you 14 know 20 year old case I believe. The enforceability of that 15 would be determined in the confirmation proceeding. The 16 enforceability of the obligation under the funding agreement.
17 And if Your Honor found that the defendant's agreement is as 18 they say it was, at least at one time, that can be part of the 19 plan with appropriate injunctions and orders so that funding 20 after so that that issue is adjudicated is what I'm saying.

21 There's no 524(g) channeling in our plan, Your Honor.
22 No nonconsensual releases. We don't touch Combustion 23 Engineering. We don't need to go close to that issue. We have 24 true opt outs to the tort system against J&J and others 25 unfettered, unrestricted for those who want it but we think

1 most people will take under the grids and the plan. We believe 2 Your Honor, we will garner overwhelming plaintiff support for 3 this plan. So it's no surprise, Your Honor, no surprise that 4 the Debtor absolutely does not want the TCC plan to be 5 docketed, published, let alone offered to claimants for a vote.
6 That shouldn't be a surprise in light of what we would be 7 offering the claimants.

8 Now, I read the Ad Hoc Committee objection mostly as 9 saying confusion, they'll be confusion. Two plans, oh my God.
10 Like people can't decide. They can decide for candidates.
11 They can decide on ballot, ballot proposals but they can't 12 decide on competing plans. From my perspective, Your Honor, 13 the only confusion really that, the word that the AHC uses is 14 the confusion of the AHC's supporting firm clients who may 15 legitimately ask and wonder why it is that their counsel have 16 contractually agreed with J&J and LTL to recommend and urge 17 them to vote for a plan that provides less actual value than 18 another plan offered by the TCC and that will be enmeshed, I'm 19 talking about the Debtor plan in litigation and appeals for 20 years before it is ever funded by J&J.

21 Again, one of the things, if you read the definitions 22 within the definitions in the PSA and the term sheet from the 23 Debtors, you'll see that what they're talking about J&J's 24 funding obligation is geared to, and I said this before in 25 court, a final nonappealable order. And simply put, the only

1 confusion is that these clients may have of the supporting law
2 firms is why their lawyers are supporting a plan that may not 3 be in their best interests.

4 So I want to just go through very quickly a very 5 quick dec talking about maybe touching upon the legal reasons 6 why Your Honor should release, end exclusivity. LTL has been 7 in bankruptcy since October 15th, 2021 with an interregnum of 8 we tried, Judge, yesterday we tried to get our reply to their 9 objection to the exclusivity motion and within two hours and 11 10 minutes after they filed their objection. We didn't do it. We 11 missed it by about an hour.

12 But the interregnum between those two bankruptcies
13 two hours and 11 minutes. This exceeds basically we're here
14 and we submit that the maximum period allowed under Section 15 1121(d)(2) of the Bankruptcy Code, if you actually look at the 16 actual what has happened in this case is gone. Now, I know Mr.
17 Gordon is going to say well, this is a new case, Judge. It is 18 a new case and we get a new, the clock starts again but this is 19 a court of equity. And you, Judge, are the master of equity in 20 this Court. It's you.

21 And we're looking to you as we always have to 22 dispense equity as appropriate under the circumstances of this 23 case. If this, LTL is not an operating company. If this case 24 is not dismissed, the key issues should be who is the best 25 plan, who has the best plan for fairly and equitably resolving

1 the talc claims? The answer is obviously the TCC and not LTL.

2 LTL is faceless, Your Honor. J&J controls it.

3 There's no doubt, Your Honor is going to hear a lot more about 4 that the week after next. LTL's objection is to obtain in 5 effect a discharge for J&J. LTL's objective is not to fairly 6 and equitably compensate talc claimants. We submit, Judge, 7 progress, we've heard progress, progress, progress. We believe 8 there has been no real meaningful progress. LTL claims to have 9 made meaningful progress. The claims of progress and majority 10 support are we believe and submit an illusion. Other people 11 have talked about it today, I'm not going to repeat that.

12 But Your Honor understands. I know Your Honor
13 understands. LTL did not negotiate with or obtain the support 14 of a substantial number of claimants let along a substantial 15 number of claimants who hold claims that can get to a jury in 16 the tort system, meaning pass summary judgment or a motion to 17 dismiss on general causation grounds.

18 More than 100 law firms representing ovarian cancer
19 and mesothelioma cases, Your Honor, including the MDL
20 leadership oppose J&J's plan and represent over 40,000 21 claimants and the majority of the cases have been filed in 22 state, their cases have been filed in State and Federal Court.

23 Most law firms that support J&J's plan are relative 24 strangers to this litigation. Most law firms that support 25 J&J's plan have never appeared in Imerys or Cyprus

1 bankruptcies, the MDL or any other of the state consolidated
2 talc litigation. Many law firms that have signed the PSA's do 3 not have a single talc lawsuit filed against J&J, LTL or any of 4 their affiliates including the 10,000 plus that are within the 5 files, the empty files it seems of Watts Guerra.

6 The plan support agreements only require as Your 7 Honor knows the law firms to recommend that their clients 8 support the plan. Many clients we believe, we submit will 9 likely vote no when the true economics of the deal are 10 disclosed to them. Talc claimants would be paid we submit who 11 would be paid over one million in the tort system, suing and 12 recovering from J&J, could get less than $10,000 from the 13 Debtor's proposed plan.

14 Talc claimants that, a talc claimants with cancer
15 diagnoses that have demonstrated a scientific link to J&J's
16 products can be expected, we submit, to oppose J&J's plans.
17 Indeed the supporting law firms may not support J&J's plan.
18 You know you've heard about that. I'm not going to go through 19 with it. At the end of the day, we'll see where we are on 20 that.

21 Testimony is that the PSA offers a framework for 22 further negotiations. Now, I doubt that that's what J&J would 23 say with respect to their contribution but that's what the law 24 firms say.

25 J&J's plan they also say is inconsistent with the 1 term sheet. Indeed at the present time, it could be fair to 2 say that J&J may have no support right now. The TCC cannot 3 have any confidence after these 20 months in LTL or J&J. LTL 4 as you know terminated the 2021 funding agreement with the 5 specific intent and motivation deliberate mens rea of creating 6 financial distress. I think I said here on day one when I was 7 later accused of libel and slander by the way, that the void or 8 voidable argument does not pass the laugh test. Your Honor 9 will see more of that in the coming weeks.

10 Your Honor knows, we talked about it last year, no
11 Texas two step has resulted in a confirmed plan, not one.
12 Bestwall seven years, correct, we're going on seven years, 13 folks? Allowing LTL to exercise exclusive control over the 14 plan process, I used this word last year in terms of estimation 15 untethered to anything else, is a road to nowhere. Competition 16 is a good thing, Judge. Competition in competing plans often 17 result in settlements and consensual plans.

18 You know I know my own experience in PG&E that the 19 Judge allowed TCC to put a plan, nothing, didn't even have to 20 go to solicitation. Debtor came to the table after they were 21 intractable and settled. LTL's plan is not confirmable on its 22 face, Judge. We believe the LTL's plan is not viable. LTL's 23 plan first of all is I think some of the folks who regularly
24 appear on Zoom tell you cannot channel J&J's own independent 25 liability to a trust, see Combustion Engineering Judge Scirica,

1 Chief Judge. We also submit that LTL's plan flunks the best
2 interest test. A mesothelioma claimants and I think Mr.
3 Satterley has told you about this a number of times, a 4 mesothelioma claimant that would receive less than $50,000 5 under J&J's plan could receive millions in the tort system from 6 J&J based on J&J's own independent liability.

7 These plan objections can be raised by any talc 8 claimants including those that are not members of an accepting 9 class, not members of our, not associated with our Committee, 10 not associated with the Ad Hoc Committee. And as I said
11 earlier, just a few number of objectors with a final order, 12 nonappealable order funding requirement can delay payment to 13 talc claimants for another half decade. We've talked to you 14 before how that maybe in J&J's interest and LTL's interest.
15 See North Carolina.

16 J&J's plan is not a paid in full plan, Your Honor.
17 They'll try to say that and, but it ain't. Page -- we have a 18 plan ready to be filed, Judge. To be clear, our position is 19 that this case was filed in bad faith and should be dismissed.
20 I'll say it again. If this case is not dismissed, we're 21 prepared to move forward very quickly. I was instructed not to 22 use the word with alacrity so I'll say very quickly. We're 23 prepared to file a disclosure statement, trust distribution 24 agreements with matrix, a trust agreement, solicitation 25 procedures form of notice and balance. We expect this plan to

1 have broad support. We believe all talc claimants can do
2 better, much better, much, much better under a TCC plan.
3 Current claimants can do better. Future claimants can do
4 better. Government claimants can do better. Third party
5 payers can do better. Everyone can do better than accept a 6 cram down and limited pot that's being offered by J&J and LTL.

7 We believe our plan offers the fair and equitable 8 resolution that LTL is controlled by J&J another offer, that's 9 it. I'm going to conclude, Judge. As we approach to the 10 motion, our second motion to dismiss trial and not yet 16 or 17 11 months, I'm going to say again this case, this Court, court of 12 equity with its equitable master in front of me, faces a 13 pivotal moment in this case. Your Honor may remember last year
14 when I talked about a road to nowhere with estimation 15 untethered to any plan purpose. Your Honor surprised us with a 16 pick of a 706 expert. That pivotal moment in the case ran out 17 of time with the dismissal by the Third Circuit and that expert 18 was never able to finish his job.

19 Here, Your Honor has another opportunity to take this 20 case out of the mud and to prevent J&J and the Debtor from 21 sticking to its preferred path to nowhere. You can shake 22 things up. We submit it's due. It's warranted. It's 23 equitable in this 20 month old case. What may that entail?
24 Well, it may entail if we, if and when, if there again, caveat 25 motion to dismiss, if and when there is a plan process and

1 competing plans may entail need for estimation for voting and 2 feasibility. It may need estimation to see whether, what J&J
3 is offering is actually the number of the tort liability. We 4 believe it's not.

5 And consideration also may be of bar date, bar date
6 motion but at the end, Judge, there needs to be a real choice 7 and a real vote. I do want to note because I saw it in their 8 papers another misrepresentation and I call it a big lie from 9 the Debtor that the TCC will not negotiate. That's a mantra, 10 you know we've heard, it's like the vote. You know Judge, give 11 us the vote. Well, okay, give everybody the vote. We're here 12 saying give us the vote too.

13 That's a big lie, Judge, and these are from the folks
14 by the way who stood up in front of Your Honor and the motion
15 to dismiss one and said, funding agreement 2001 exists inside
16 and outside of bankruptcy and even in dismissal. Thank you,
17 Mr. Gordon. And told the Third Circuit told Judge Ambro, Neal 18 Katyal, that the funding agreement exists outside of 19 bankruptcy.

20 So when you hear these sort of representations from 21 people who change their positions when it is convenient for 22 them to do that I want you to take that with a little bit of 23 stock and a little bit of skepticism. We've been dealing with 24 the mediators, Your Honor's mediation order regularly. I know 25 J&J and LTL knows that. They know that for part one and part

1 two we've been thinking of innovative and creative solutions 2 that would address J&J's end of all talc for all time while at 3 the same time meeting the needs of all of our constituents.
4 We're here constructive, innovative, flexible and nimble and to 5 say that we will not negotiate is actually the pot, you know,
6 that's the wrong analogy. It's actually a reflection, Judge, 7 on a stance that may have very little flexibility other than 8 what they've put in their proposed plan.

9 So as we finish, Judge, it is a pivotal day. We ask 10 Your Honor to do what is good in America, open the playing 11 field. Let us, let us put forth our solutions, our innovative 12 solutions that will garner support across the entire community 13 of talc claimants. If there is a vote, Judge, let it be a real 14 vote with real choices for the real parties in this case, the 15 long suffering victims of J&J's talc product who are now 16 looking at their second here coming up in this bankruptcy.

17 Judge, let us file it. If we go forward with 18 disclosure statement and solicitation, let us do it in 19 accordance with that but let the talc community see it. Let 20 this not be a one sided show after 20 months going on two 21 years. That's my presentation, Judge.

22 THE COURT: All right. Mr. Molton, I do have a 23 couple questions. I want to delve a little further. You
24 touched on it and it's really for both sides. Because what I
25 hear from both the Debtor and the Committee is that we're ready

1 to go. We can move forward with the plan. Let's get votes.
2 We're going to have the support. And that's what intrigues me.
3 I guess I'm skeptical about how quickly this can move forward 4 and we can establish support. Because who's voting? This is 5 going to be critical. And you did touch on it.

6 It is to say we're going to have a vote begs the 7 question. We have tens of thousands of votes represented by 8 potentially the Ad Hoc Group. If the Committee is going to 9 confirm a plan, they're going to need the same 75 percent the 10 Debtor is going to need. Tens of thousands of votes hang in 11 the balance and can preclude, frankly can preclude confirmation 12 of either plan. We don't have a bar date. We don't have 13 proofs of claim. We don't have, we know what we don't have.
14 We don't have, but we have challenges. We have a motion filed 15 by Mr. Thompson challenging consideration of claims. We have, 16 am I going to be doing thousands of, doing Daubert hearings on 17 the validity of the science supporting?

18 It's on both sides because my understanding and I've 19 had many a conversation with Judge Wilson. There were plenty 20 of claims in the MDL that were identified for Bellwether and 21 then were suddenly dismissed. So there's questions on all 22 sides as to claims. So what is the process going to be? How 23 are we going to calculate the denominator and do we need to?

24 MR. MOLTON: Judge, my view, and again, prefaced by 25 Your Honor needs to rule on the motion to dismiss, that's

1 number one. Your Honor, and again I'll reiterate again, and I
2 know may sound like a broken record but I'm pretty, I'm pretty 3 succinct. We see the Third Circuit decision and read it in 4 many ways including 1112(b) as well as the case law on that, is 5 leading right to a dismissal. That's how we see it. Whether 6 Your Honor agrees with us or not, we look forward to coming up 7 and arguing those points.

8 But from my perspective, Judge, from my perspective, 9 you can't really have a disclosure statement, you know and I'm 10 just talking as a bankruptcy lawyer, you can't really have a 11 disclosure statement until you resolve the issues that you 12 talked about, right. We need to know who the claim pool is.
13 We need to know who votes, what is their weight on vote. And I
14 just want to say because our proposed plan is not a 524(g) plan
15 nor 105 nondebtor release plan. It's a typical bankruptcy plan
16 and it's confirmable pursuant to typical bankruptcy rules. So 17 I just want to note that. So we're looking for the normal --

18 THE COURT: So you dropped to the 50 percent and two 19 thirds, right.

20 MR. MOLTON: In 66 percent of the value. But those 21 are important issues. Those have to be decided before a 22 claimant can understand what am I getting. You know who's 23 going to be voting, who's eligible, what am I going to be 24 getting. So you know from our perspective and looking at a 25 plan that, you know what I call the cram down plan, the J&J

1 cram down, you know these are issues that are going to take 2 this Court's time, you know assuming we get through the motion
3 to dismiss, Your Honor, denies it, hopefully Your Honor won't, 4 we'll be convincing enough that Your Honor will grant that 5 motion.

6 But all these things will have to be sequenced and 7 tallied so that you can have adequate disclosure and then 8 voting in accordance with somebody who may be eligible to vote
9 with the proper weight ascribed to that vote. We have states 10 here, Judge. We have third, you know we have, we have 11 mesothelioma claimants. We have ovarian cancer claimants. We 12 have claimants who as I mentioned may have diseases that at 13 least with respect to talc allegations won't get them to a jury 14 based on existing Daubert.

15 So all those things have to be done and those in 16 terms of getting to that vote, Judge, it's a complicated case 17 and should His Honor decide to go down this path, the first 18 point orders of business before we get to disclosure statement 19 and solicitation need to be as Your Honor said identifying and 20 reconciling those issues.

21 THE COURT: Has the Committee in formulating its plan 22 engaged with the FCR? I know there's an appeal that has been 23 filed with respect to the appointment but has there been any 24 engagement with the FCR?

25 MR. MOLTON: We've talked, in part one, I think we

1 talked with the FCR about this sort of thing and I asked Mr.
2 Falanga anticipating this very question, Judge, I caught Mr.
3 Falanga in the hallway today and asked for a meeting with him
4 just on those reasons for those reasons so.

5 THE COURT: All right, fair enough, thank you.

6 MR. MOLTON: If that's it, Judge, I'll sit down.

7 THE COURT: At this point, that's it. Mr. Thompson?

8 MR. THOMPSON: Thank you, Your Honor. So I think 9 that you've touched on a few of the important issues that need 10 to dismiss this case. It's a jurisdictional issue. It's a 11 gating issue. Bad faith, Debtors are not allowed into the safe 12 harbor and so I agree that the Debtor's motion to prevent, I 13 don't know what's in the TCC plan and so I agree that the 14 Debtor's motion is meritless.

15 But you've identified, I think a number of issues.
16 Who's the claimant, right? Who's going to decide who a 17 claimant is? Now, in the tort system J&J seem to believe that 18 a claimant was an epithelial ovarian cancer victim or a 19 mesothelioma victim because the evidence that we're seeking 20 that I think will be on display at the motion to dismiss trial, 21 is those are the only cases they settled.

22 Now, Mr. Onder has 9,000 uterine cancer claims 23 approximately and he believes that uterine cancer is caused by 24 talc. Maybe it is. But there's no scientific support yet for 25 that and there has been no Daubert hearing on uterine cancer

1 claims. And so I think what the Debtor is banking on is chaos
2 and the kind of chaos that happens when we allow bad faith 3 Debtors which is what the Third Circuit decided LTL was into 4 the safe harbor bankruptcy. They're running amok and 5 ultimately the Debtor is wasting your time, Judge.

6 Because any plan that gets confirmed, so let's say
7 that we have mini Daubert hearings in this proceeding and I 8 object to that, you know my position on this are clear. But 9 let's say we have mini Daubert trials. And then we have 10 arguments over who's a claimant. And then we're arguing about 11 what claims are worth and we're doing this. This can take 12 years and years and years.

13 Whenever the plan is confirmed, if it infringes on 14 any future victims' complete opt out to all State Law remedies, 15 it's going to get tossed on appeal because the future victim is 16 either going to hire me or Joe Satterley or Jerry Black or 17 Ruckdeschel or somebody and they're going to challenge the plan 18 and they're going to win because you can't bind future victims
19 in the absence of a limited fund and there is not a limited 20 fund. I understand that Ortiz is a class action case. Ortiz 21 post dated 524(g), okay.

22 They invited Congress to take action. Congress took 23 no action in response to Ortiz. All of the policy arguments 24 that these wealthy two steppers make are policy arguments that 25 Congress rejected. And so there's no plan that's going to be

1 confirmable. By the way, they're never going to agree to that 2 anyway because in Bestwall the Committee proposed a plan that 3 allowed opt outs, opt outs on either side. If Georgia Pacific 4 disagreed with the offer, they could opt out. If the claimant 5 disagreed with the offer, they could opt out.

6 Bestwall rejected that, the Debtor out of hand. So 7 J&J is never going to agree to a plan that is constitutional.
8 They didn't demean themselves with this bankruptcy. J&J is 9 launching this embarrassing bankruptcy. They didn't do all 10 this to protect people's rights.

11 Their current plan which they tout is 8.9 billion, 12 it's historic, this historic number. The Third Circuit found 13 that over the next 24 months J&J's total liabilities for 14 everything, not just talc, 2.4 billion over the next 24 months, 15 that was in their opinion. That's what the Third Circuit
16 found. So let's say that their talc liability is about a 17 billion dollars a year. That's a lot of money but it's not a 18 lot of money when you're worth $500 billion. So that's, if 19 they're in the tort litigation for 30 years, that's $30 billion 20 total. They're going to give away $363 billion in dividends
21 over the next 30 years. It's minuscule. It doesn't matter.
22 They're not in distress. All of this is the chaos of their own 23 creation.

24 They say it's a large, complex case. Yes, they 25 created it. They created this dumpster fire and they're

1 demanding that you fix it for them. And you've identified a 2 number of issues that will come up in all of this stuff and 3 that's why Mr. Molton is absolutely correct. The cleanest and 4 best way to dispose of this, is to follow the Third Circuit's 5 ruling and say you're not allowed into the safe harbor if 6 you're not in good faith.

7 THE COURT: That's two weeks from now. Very finite
8 issue. I know where you stand on whether this case should go
9 forward. This is on Committee's motion to terminate 10 exclusivity.

11 MR. THOMPSON: I am not opposed to the TCC proposing 12 a plan. Mr. Hoss (phonetic) says that there's a significant 13 minority of firms that oppose the current plan. So then I 14 asked him in his depo, I quoted him to himself to him, and 15 tried to go into what an individual gets under the current 16 plan. He didn't like that, okay. And Mr. Kim, when I went 17 into it with him, he refers to the TDP's.

18 And so the current plan is terrible so I agree with 19 that. So I'm not opposed to the TCC proposing a plan because 20 the current plan is objectively unconstitutional and 21 unconfirmable for one of many half a dozen reasons is that the 22 individuals asked to vote on this plan don't know what they're 23 going to get because in Article Seven of the TDP, it says that 24 the dollar amount that's going to be assigned to each point is 25 going to range from 50 cents to $2 but it could be less than 1 that. Well, it's a function of how many claims are filed as 2 you've touched on. Well, are uterine cancer claimants going to 3 be filed?

4 And the other thing I would say that the TCC if we're 5 going to allow plans let's do the TCC's plan is because who 6 benefits from a trust where a uterine cancer victim it's after 7 attorneys' fees five hundred bucks, right. It doesn't benefit 8 the uterine cancer victim. And so what we're seeing here is 9 this Ad Hoc Group that has got tens of thousands of claims 10 worth nothing right now in the tort system that someday maybe 11 the scientific link will be there but right now there is 12 nothing.

13 And so we're going to allow them to vote and we're 14 going to have that plan. So you understand my positions. My 15 positions are clear but in terms of the competing plans. If 16 we're going to have any sort of vote, they're going to have 17 sort of compete, any sort of disclosure and voting, please 18 allow there to be competing plans. Thank you.

19 THE COURT: Thank you. Anyone else in court? I see 20 -- I have to start worrying about how to pronounce your name, 21 Ruckdeschel?

22 MR. RUCKDESCHEL: Ruckdeschel.

23 THE COURT: Ruckdeschel, you're making it all, making 24 it so difficult. All right.

25 MR. RUCKDESCHEL: It's how it's spelled, Judge.

1 THE COURT: Go ahead.

2 MR. RUCKDESCHEL: Your Honor, look, I fully agree 3 with Mr. Molton that if this case remains before the Court the 4 Debtor cannot be allowed to have exclusivity, that's simple.
5 In fact, if this case remains before the Court after the 6 dismissal we are going to be moving to remove the Debtor as the 7 DIP because it's proven over and over that's incapable of 8 following its fiduciary duty to the Estate as opposed to its 9 duty to its corporate over board.

10 But with that said, right, I haven't seen the TCC's 11 plan so I can't comment on the specifics of it. I will 12 generally state, however, Your Honor, because I think this is 13 an appropriate issue that a bad faith filing by the Debtor 14 cannot be cured with a plan. A plan from the TCC, a plan from 15 a creditor, a plan from the Debtor. You cannot consensually 16 overcome a bad faith filing ab initio.

17 And so my request to the Court is that you table this 18 issue. You table this motion. You table the disclosure 19 statement stuff from the Debtor and let's have the ruling on 20 the motion to dismiss. And then if we have to go forward from 21 there, let's get it on with respect to what it's going to look 22 like going forward because as Your Honor mentioned, it's going 23 to be a complete circus. And we're going to have to figure out 24 what the rules of that will be but I hope we never get there.
25 And that will be after Your Honor certifies the dismissal

1 ruling and any injunctive ruling that goes with it to a third 2 and we wait and get that decision.

3 That's my request to the Court. I think it's the 4 cleanest way to approach this and I just wanted to make clear, 5 no matter what, I certainly agree that there are creative ways
6 to handle master liability but it is not this Court's 7 statutorily prescribe role to be that creative person in a 8 situation where there is not an actual limited fund. Thank 9 you, Judge.

10 THE COURT: Thank you. Mr. Gordon.

11 MR. GORDON: Thank you, Your Honor, Greg Gordon, 12 Jones Day on behalf of the Debtor. So I think from the 13 Debtor's perspective, Your Honor, there's about five reasons 14 why we believe Your Honor should deny the relief requested by 15 the TCC so I'm just going to start from the top and go through 16 the five.

17 So the first, Your Honor, is the fact that this 18 really is an extraordinary request in the sense that this case
19 has only been pending for a little over two months. And a plan 20 and disclosure statement have been, have already been filed.

21 Now, I recognize that Mr. Molton is of the view that 22 this is all one and the same case. But we obviously didn't 23 elect to dismiss the prior case. That happened by virtue of a 24 Third Circuit ruling. But more importantly, there's a 25 fundamental difference between the two cases. And that is that

1 this case began with plan support agreements signed by a number 2 of law firms representing tens of thousands of claimants. And 3 from the beginning we've made clear our desire is to move 4 forward with that plan on behalf of those claimants and to come 5 in, in light of that not only in about two months after this 6 case was filed but only a month after the plan was filed with 7 that support is extraordinary and it really is unprecedented in 8 a sense that the case, you know case law doesn't support the 9 idea that the four month minimum that is in the Bankruptcy Code 10 for exclusivity should be terminated based on facts like that.

11 And I would submit, Your Honor, and I'm going to get 12 into this more in a moment that this is just another prong in a 13 multi-faceted litigation attack on this case. This isn't 14 really a real plan. It's just a litigation strategy. It's 15 another way for the Committee both to disrupt the case and to 16 effectively seek a dismissal of the case if in fact Your Honor 17 determines not to grant the motions to dismiss.

18 (music playing)

19 THE COURT: Sounds better with music background.

20 MR. GORDON: I probably would have picked different 21 music. So that's point one. Point two is the fact that the 22 motion did not include this so called plan that's apparently 23 been in the works for weeks if not months and is basically 24 ready to go, nor does, did the motion or the reply filed 25 yesterday include any description of its financial terms. So

1 to me that is very, that's very telling that there would be 2 nothing put on file about the plan and certainly nothing about 3 the material terms, the financial terms. And if you read, if 4 you had a chance to read the reply, what you'll see is the 5 Committee saying things like well, sure, we're prepared to 6 share about the plan and we heard more things today something 7 about a toggle which I've said and fully understand.

8 But yesterday it was very general and vague
9 statements like, the plan will establish a trust and the trust 10 will be governing by trustees and there will be a trust
11 advisory committee. There will be trust distribution 12 procedures. They'll have gating mechanisms, matrices and there 13 will be a tort opt where the claimants can return to the tort 14 system if they don't like what they get under the plan.

15 I mean something that everything plan has in an 16 asbestos case but that's all meaningless. That's just like 17 putting in a boilerplate. That's not providing any meaningful 18 information. And the fact, Your Honor, that nothing has been 19 said about the economics of the plan, nothing. Nothing has 20 been said about what the projected funding requirement is.
21 Nothing has been said about what any particular type of claim 22 would be entitled to under the plan and I would say that's 23 deliberate.

24 And I think it's deliberate because they can't 25 disclose this purported plan for fear it jeopardizes their case

1 on financial distress. And you know that's because you know
2 you heard Mr. Molton say it today. Every creditor constituency 3 from the claimants to the governmental agencies to the 4 lienholders they'll do better, not just a little better, 5 they'll do much better, much, much better.

6 Okay, fine. So what are you proposing in the TDP's 7 for those parties? What is the, what and what is the number of 8 claims that you're projecting? Because I guarantee if it looks 9 anything like the Imerys plan, and that's what Mr. Molton 10 referred to today, you're talking about a plan that's probably, 11 requires funding in the hundreds of billions of dollars. But 12 none of that's disclosed. And I would be willing to bet that 13 even if Your Honor were to entertain this motion, we feel 14 strongly that you should not, that although a plan might be 15 filed, they won't file the TDP's. I'll bet they'll hold that 16 into much later because again I think it's clear that they know 17 full well that what they want, would obviously demonstrate an 18 absence of financial, it would demonstrate, I'm sorry, 19 financial distress and they're not going to go there with that.

20 And it's just the way this case is proceeding up 21 until now they're attempting I believe to duck an obvious 22 inconsistency in their position. On the one hand the Debtor is 23 not in financial distress. On the other hand the Debtor has 24 committed the largest fraudulent transfer on the history of 25 bankruptcy. On the other hand our plan is willfully deficient.

1 Willfully deficient. You heard Mr. Birchfield (phonetic) up
2 here complaining about the plan and how it was providing a 3 small fraction or it would provide a small fraction of the 4 recoveries to which claimants are entitled.

5 And so to me this just shows, this isn't a real plan
6 and it's demonstrated in any number of ways. I think one 7 reason it's not real is because we haven't seen it. We haven't 8 seen any description of the financial terms. It's not real 9 because it doesn't have any funding other than one of two 10 things, either what we viewed as plainly groundless 11 interpretation of the funding agreement or the other is a 12 fraudulent transfer claim which you can't square with their 13 financial distress position.

14 But you know if you think about it on the funding 15 agreement, they're suggesting that a provision that applies 16 outside of bankruptcy, applies to a bankruptcy plan. And so on 17 the other side of that, the plan or the provision that applies 18 in bankruptcy apparently doesn't apply to a bankruptcy plan.
19 That doesn't, that doesn't make any sense.

20 And the other thing we've learned and the other 21 reason I would submit it's not a real plan is we've heard 22 enough to know it's effectively a dismissal. It doesn't 23 resolve anything. You heard Mr. Molton say it's not 524(g).
24 It's not 105. There's no channeling. There's no injunction, 25 ergo, there's no resolution at all. It allows everyone to opt

1 out apparently. So the way it works as I understand it, is 2 they have, they would have a matrix with inflated values which 3 you could take if you want, I guess or you can just opt out and 4 there's no reasonable of anything. And again they're not 5 telling us what the inflated values are because they know it's 6 going to jeopardize their case on financial distress.

7 So to me at the end that's not a plan. That's just 8 another bite at the apple on dismissal if their motions aren't 9 granted. And because that's all it is, I would strongly 10 suggest that that's not a reason to terminate exclusivity.

11 The third thing I would say and I think this is the 12 reason why Mr. Molton doesn't want to get into the cases today, 13 is the cases would say that it's not an appropriate basis to 14 terminate exclusivity because the constituent or the party
15 doesn't like the plan and wants to propose an alternative plan 16 and we cited a number of cases for that proposition. I'm not 17 going to go into the detail because I know Your Honor has read 18 the pleadings but there were two that were notable. I thought 19 the Geriatric Nursing Home case from the District Court, 20 District of New Jersey which to me was interesting because the 21 District Court actually concluded that the Bankruptcy Court 22 abused its discretion in terminating exclusivity to permit an 23 allegedly more favorable plan to be filed. The District Court 24 said that wasn't enough, that wasn't sufficient to show cause.

25 And a very similar result obtained in EaglePicher

1 case, very similar facts, a desire to terminate exclusivity to 2 present a supposedly more beneficial or favorable plan and the 3 Court said that that wasn't enough.

4 The next reason, Your Honor, is that, and perhaps 5 this is the most important is we believe that if Your Honor 6 grants the motion, it's only going to impede progress in the 7 case. It's only going to create distraction, complexity and 8 cause delay.

9 In essence, in our view, it would only create another 10 litigation track in the case and it would be one with 11 potentially many facets. One would be that we would be 12 litigating over whether the funding agreement is the equivalent 13 of insurance and therefore can be transferred to a trust. We 14 would be litigating over whether a plan could be funded through 15 fraudulent transfer litigation. We would be litigating over 16 whether a plan could be funded through an interpretation of the 17 funding agreement that contends that the bankruptcy funding 18 provision does not apply to a bankruptcy plan.

19 And the related question through all of that is how 20 long will that all take to do that? It will be a distraction.
21 It will cause delay and the biggest worry that we have is that 22 we are concerned that parties who now are subject to the 23 mediation order in the midst of mediation will be disincented 24 or disincentivized to engage meaningfully in the mediation, 25 will be disincentivized to engage meaningfully in plan

1 negotiations. And in fact we've already seen an impact from 2 that as parties, some parties are saying we want to wait and 3 see.

4 So Your Honor I think has said and we certainly are 5 of the view that this case should move forward promptly. And I
6 think Your Honor has been endeavoring to do that by having us
7 proceed on parallel tracks and we already have the dismissal
8 track. We're working on finalizing this plan to push forward
9 on that track. We have the potential fraudulent transfer 10 track. Now, we've heard today that apparently we're going to 11 have a motion for trustee track and to add on top of all that, 12 a competing plan track based on a request to shorten the four 13 month period to allow a plan that's largely undisclosed to be 14 filed in some point in the future and probably not filed in 15 full because of the concern about the impact on the financial 16 distress case.

17 So Your Honor, we think the case law indicates that 18 the movant here the Committee has a heavy burden to carry in 19 seeking to shorten exclusivity to even less than the four month 20 period provided in the Code and that burden in our view should 21 be especially heavy in a mass tort case where exclusivity is 22 typically extended multiple times if not typically through the 23 entire maximum 18 month period.

24 Now admittedly as I said before, this is a second 25 filing and we get that. But this was a filing accompanied by

1 support, significant support and with a plan and with a 2 timetable that so far we've met as we said we would.

3 And the other thing I would say, Your Honor, is that 4 it's not as if this issue won't be addressed again and couldn't 5 be addressed again. In other words, we only have four months
6 unless we seek an extension. So in less than two months we'll 7 be back before Your Honor potentially with a motion to extend 8 exclusivity at which time Your Honor can decide whether an 9 extension is warranted or whether at that point in time based 10 on lack of progress or other reasons that exclusivity should 11 not be continued.

12 But from our perspective, where we are in this case
13 having filed a plan with the support it has, having filed a 14 disclosure statement, having taken steps to schedule a 15 disclosure statement hearing and then proceed with solicitation 16 procedures and the like, an extension would be justified if it 17 were at that time in the case. But a termination of 18 exclusivity certainly would not. And so Your Honor, we would 19 request that Your Honor deny the motion of the Committee.

20 THE COURT: Thank you, Mr. Gordon. Mr. Hansen.

21 MR. HANSEN: Good afternoon, Your Honor, Kris Hansen 22 with Paul Hastings on behalf of the Ad Hoc Committee. Your 23 Honor, you invited the filing of this motion so it's slightly 24 awkward to be so opposed to it. But the Ad Hoc Committee
25 believes that granting the TCC motion will result in miring

1 everyone in more litigation, not less and wind up with a worse
2 result for all claimants and we're compelled to oppose it. If 3 you survey what's in front of the Court now, you have a plan on 4 file that we've all said is going to be amended and would like 5 to see it go forward from the Debtor's side and from the Ad Hoc 6 Committee side.

7 Regardless of the non-evidence that keeps getting put 8 before you about the lack of viability of the claims that our 9 clients represent, they're real claims, Judge. Many of them 10 actually were filed. You have pleading after pleading on the 11 side of the Court that says those claims were never filed.
12 They were, many of them. You have selective quotes from 13 depositions that are not evidence. If they want to put that 14 in, they know the way to do that. We can make designations
15 come before the Court. That's not what's happening here.

16 But those are selective quotes. There were other 17 comments during those depositions. I don't think it's relevant 18 so I'm not going to get into it. But the reality is, the plan 19 has significant support from the Ad Hoc Committee. You have 20 two mediators that you appointed who are in active mediation.
21 You heard Mr. Molton say on their side they talk to the 22 mediators all the time and they're ready, willing and able to 23 negotiate.

24 That's what's before the Court right now. So the 25 stage is set to do what bankruptcy is designed to do which is

1 to drive a process, either to consensus or to the finish line
2 of confirmation where you decide the issues. Against this, you
3 have scorched earth litigation tactics including a mandamus
4 attempt, a motion to suspend the case and now we're hearing 5 about a motion to appoint an operating trustee.

6 Exclusivity exists for a reason, Your Honor. Cutting
7 it off earlier is a dramatic move. The Supreme Court in 203
8 North LaSalle said for example one time that you might want to 9 terminate an exclusivity candidly which you should is where 10 there hasn't been a market test of a new value opportunity 11 that's being provided to a party in interest in the case.
12 Sometimes there's just not progress at all and the Debtor is 13 staling or sometimes courts perceive an abuse of process. But 14 the overriding balance act in determining whether to terminate 15 exclusivity is a bit of what happens if you do.

16 Will you advance the cases? Will the cases somehow 17 move in a positive direction as a result of exclusivity 18 termination. Your Honor, the Ad Hoc Committee submits that 19 what will happen will be the opposite. These cases will cease.
20 It will turn into even more litigation and trying to figure out
21 what it is that the TCC is proposing from a plan perspective
22 that at least the way Mr. Molton has described it so far isn't 23 even remotely close to being capable of confirmation and will 24 include an enormous amount of litigation itself.

25 Pause for a moment. What have we heard about the 1 plan? More for everybody. Everybody gets what they want 2 whether you want to go sue somebody in court and not be a part 3 of the plan. Whether you want to come into the plan, you'll 4 get much, much more. And what's the funding source for all of 5 that? Mr. Molton says the 2023 agreement, good old Fed Mo

6 plan. What we're going to do is we're going to basically 7 create a plan that acquires this Debtor and then we're going to 8 succeed to all of its rights and use its funding.

9 But read the reply they filed. They also prepared to 10 file an avoidance action to go after the 2021 funding 11 agreement. More for everybody. We'll take the 8.9. We'll 12 take the rest of it. We'll get to about 62 billion and we'll 13 just dole that out to everybody. We're not going to tell you 14 how we're going to do that yet. But we're going to do that.
15 And we're not going to use a channeling injunction because we 16 want everybody to have their rights in state court too which 17 they can have.

18 But we believe everybody would actually come in and 19 be a part of the plan and they would like it better because 20 there's just so much money for everybody. That just doesn't 21 happen, Judge. That's a tremendous amount of litigation, a 22 tremendous amount of litigation to get to that point. And the 23 underlying issues that the TCC points out about the difficulty 24 of assessing the viability of claims that can vote on a plan, 25 it's the same in their plan. It's the same issue.

1 So Your Honor, what you have before you from the Ad
2 Hoc Committee's perspective is, put the plan that you have on 3 file and that will be amended that you can prove a disclosure 4 statement on hopefully to a vote. Give the Debtor the chance.
5 Do not weaponize the TCC even further than it already is to put 6 a nonplan on file and use it to blunt the Debtor's process.

7 On the topic of filing it, you heard Mr. Molton say 8 to Your Honor, even if you don't decide in our favor, just let 9 us put the plan on file. That way everybody can see it and 10 they can all know what we're talking about. Your Honor, that's 11 a patent violation of exclusivity. That's inappropriate. As 12 the TCC knows, it's commonplace when you move to terminate 13 exclusivity if you actually have an alternative plan to file it 14 under seal, the -- you put it under seal. You get to see it.
15 Other parties who are litigating, under a, who can sign a 16 protective order or a seal order, they can see it too.

17 And if you have to, you can deal with a hearing by 18 sequestering certain folks to make sure that you have a robust 19 hearing with respect to it. That's not what happened here.
20 What's happening here is we're getting podium testimony about 21 the more for everybody plan that seems patently unconfirmable.
22 And Your Honor, putting it out there to just put it out there 23 so that everybody can see it in the clear light of day is 24 really just yet again unauthorized solicitation. It's lobbying 25 claimants in the case to say don't vote for the plan that the 1 Debtor is going to bring forward. They get their time to do

2 that. Now, is not the time.

3 Your Honor, again, I started out by saying there were 4 an awful lot of cheap shots that were put out there at the 5 beginning of Mr. Molton's position against members of our 6 Committee. Again, it's intentionally misleading. It is not 7 evidence and it is not relevant to the issues before you. But 8 it does demonstrate a very salient point. The TCC owes a 9 fiduciary duty to all claimants. They know full well that 10 members of our Committee have filed claims. They know full 11 well the members of our Committee served on their Committee in 12 the last case. And yet, all we had are endless attacks at the 13 Ad Hoc Committee members and the claimants that they represent.
14 That is not satisfaction of a fiduciary duty on behalf of an 15 official committee.

16 What it is, is a one sided attack on a myopic agenda 17 that demonstrates the very risk of granting their motion to 18 terminate exclusivity and again, Your Honor, something so 19 powerful as granting them the right to put on a plan on and 20 prosecute it, you have to think twice about that. You have to 21 look at the conduct that has happened in this case so far and 22 you have to respect the fact that the Debtor is making 23 progress.

24 The Debtor and the Ad Hoc Committee as I mentioned 25 earlier are hard at work every day. We are working to try to 1 get an amended plan on file that we want to bring before the 2 Court and we want to ask the Court to put it out for a vote 3 That doesn't mean that they get to have their plan voted on 4 too. You heard Mr. Molton say why doesn't everybody get a 5 chance to vote? Everybody does get a chance to vote on the 6 Debtor's plan when it's solicited.

7 Your Honor, once again, they carry a very heavy 8 burden. We don't think they've met it. And when you look at 9 the question of what happens if you terminate exclusivity, we 10 believe you're just going to make everything that you deal with 11 all the time worse. Thank you, Your Honor.

12 THE COURT: All right, thank you. Mr. Molton?

13 MR. MOLTON: Judge, I'm just going to have a couple 14 of remarks. I don't think there's that much to respond to.
15 Mr. Gordon as I heard him just invited us to file the plan.
16 We'll do it. Let us do it. Number one.

17 Number two we appreciate Mr. Gordon's motion to 18 dismiss preview. He'll have a better opportunity to do that in 19 the right proceeding in a week and a half.

20 You know, I think -- turning to Mr. Hansen he said a 21 lot of things, just be advised he's contractually bound to say 22 that. So his PSA's of his members contractually bind him to 23 say exactly what he said. I don't think it's our Committee 24 that, or the claimants that are doing any scorched earth here.
25 Indeed, Your Honor, again that's a reflection from the other

1 side. I do want to say Mr. Hansen's remarks regarding, you
2 know timing and Mr. Gordon's remarks regarding timing may have 3 been relevant in May, April 2022. They're not relevant now.

4 But in any event, I'm just going to get to the end of 5 it, Your Honor. Competition is good. I think one of the 6 things Mr. Hansen did understand is how we fund the plan. We 7 fund it using their own words and their own contracts to the 8 extent that $30 billion is not enough. There's avoidance
9 rights, but in any event, we need not go there now but I think 10 Mr. Hansen got it right, something that Mr. Gordon didn't want 11 to see.

12 In any event, what are they afraid of? With all due 13 respect at this time, what are they afraid of? They're afraid 14 of competition. They're afraid of losing control of the case.
15 Judge, level the playing field. Do it in a way that's 16 sequential, makes sense from this Court's perspective. Our 17 focus is on the motion to dismiss. I want to repeat again from 18 the Committee's perspective and this committee represents all 19 talc claimants, all of them and it's not that unusual for an 20 official Committee to take a position adverse to the interests 21 of an Ad Hoc Group. It happens. In any event, we're always 22 willing to talk to Mr. Hansen. I've done so. I'll do so 23 again.

24 What are they afraid of Judge? We think the time has 25 come for Your Honor, as a court of equity, to use equity. And

1 if this case survives dismissal, and we -- again, our position 2 is this case is an invalid, bad-faith case filed for an 3 improper bankruptcy purpose. But if this case survives 4 dismissal at that, you know, let us go forward. Level the 5 playing field. The whole world is watching, Judge.

6 Thank you.

7 UNIDENTIFIED SPEAKER: Your Honor, I'll be brief.
8 And then I'm going to leave and get on a train and won't be 9 here this afternoon, I promise. This is the last you'll see me 10 today.

11 THE COURT: Well, I'll hold you to that. Go ahead.

12 UNIDENTIFIED SPEAKER: This is the last you'll see me
13 today. So, I think I heard Mr. Hanson say, you know, the plan 14 is not going to pass because it's going -- more for everyone.
15 He's -- is the -- is the Ad Hoc against more money for the Ad 16 Hoc Group of claimants? The Ad Hoc seems to be implying that 17 it doesn't like opt outs. Why would an Ad Hoc group allegedly 18 representing claimants be against opt outs?

19 This is an incredible bluff by Mr. Molton. Like if 20 he doesn't have a plan -- because Mr. Gordon's arguments seem 21 to be it's not a real plan. It's not confirmable. Mr. Molton 22 seems -- I don't know what's in the plan, I'm not in the TCC.
23 I eat their sandwiches from time to time, but I don't know
24 what's in their plan. And Mr. Molton, I think he's got a plan.

25 And so that's an incredible bluff if he doesn't have

1 a plan. So I don't see any reason why they couldn't propose 2 it, especially given that the Ad Hoc and the debtor are 3 amending their existing plan. Right? I mean, the the plan
4 that's going to be voted on, I think has now been established.
5 It's not going to be the plan that's on file. So if we're 6 going to consider plans, and again, I don't think we should, 7 but if we're going to consider plans, I think we ought to 8 consider both of them.

9 And then Mr. Gordon admits that, well, anyone who 10 wants to can opt out and go to the tort system, and that would 11 -- I think he said that would equal a dismissal and that really 12 ultimately is what this is about. The entire two-step scam is 13 about taking defendants that are not in distress, and treating 14 524(g) like a menu choice. So, of course, the debtor is 15 against any opt outs. They don't like people's state law 16 remedies. If they respected people's state law remedies, they 17 wouldn't have filed this case to begin with.

18 Thank you Judge.

19 THE COURT: Thank you.

20 MR. MOLTEN: Judge, --

21 THE COURT: Have a safe trip.

22 MR. MOLTON: -- just so that you --

23 UNIDENTIFIED FEMALE SPEAKER: A one-way ticket.

24 MR. MOLTON: I just want to be clear. We are 25 prepared to go forward and in the same way that the debtors

1 plan is on file, we'd appreciate ours to be as well. But in 2 terms of going forward to disclosure statement, I'll leave that 3 to Ms. Cyganowski and others, my friends on my left, in terms 4 of timing, but I want to be clear that I'm not -- I'm not -- in 5 my last remarks I wasn't saying that -- that we'd like to 6 withhold until that time.

7 THE COURT: Understood.

8 MR. MOLTON: Yeah.

9 THE COURT: Let's move forward to that disclosure 10 statement hearing issue. Mr. Gordon, I don't know how much 11 you're going to add to what we've been discussing.

12 MR. GORDON: Greg Gordon, Jones Day, again, on behalf 13 of the debtor. I don't think we have much to add on this. The 14 -- I think the relief we were initially seeking was some 15 expedited relief which has become moot by the passage of time.
16 So I think the only request we have of Your Honor is to set a 17 date for a hearing on a disclosure statement. And we 18 recognize, obviously, there's a lot going on with the dismissal 19 litigation towards the end of the month and thereafter.

20 And our proposal to Your Honor was going to be to set 21 the disclosure statement hearing for the omnibus in August, 22 which I think is the 2nd. I think, -- obviously, it could be 23 moved, I suppose. Well, probably not with the notice that has 24 to go out, but the idea was to put it at a date that kept us
25 moving forward, but it was past the dismissal litigation. So

1 that was our proposal that we set for that date.

2 THE COURT: All right, thank you.

3 Ms. Cyganowski.

4 MS. CYGANOWSKI: Thank you, Your Honor. Melanie
5 Cyganowski, Otterbourg. Still proposed counsel, co-counsel to 6 the committee.

7 Obviously, this is a little bit of a moving target.
8 But before I begin, something that's just been troubling me as 9 I've been sitting here listening to the accusations flow back 10 and forth, I asked myself, you know, why is the TCC and the 11 others -- creditors, especially the Ad Hoc's, who have stood up 12 in opposition, considered to be the bad guys? You know, we're 13 the bad guys because we're doing scorched -- scorched earth 14 litigation. We have a myopic agenda. There were a number of 15 adjectives and adverbs that were thrown around.

16 And when we place this in the context that the debtor 17 brought the case in October of 2021, we went through 18 significant litigation including the dismissal hearing. We 19 lost. We continued to work in the case. And it wasn't until 20 the Third Circuit rendered its decision that the case became 21 dismissed. And then in a span of 2 hours in 11 minutes, -- I 22 guess we should all get T-shirts with that number on it -- the 23 debtor sheds $30 billion and we call them out for doing that.
24 And for that we're being accused of being bad guys and scorched 25 earth and not playing along with the game.

1 Because at the end of the day, and you're gonna hear 2 this in two weeks, we truly believe that there's a gating issue
3 here of whether or not L2 -- LTL2 has been filed in good faith.
4 And that certainly deals with the motion -- the notion here of 5 should we have a disclosure statement? Should there be a plan?

6 So our first request is that you adjourn it without 7 date. Let's wait to see what happens at the motion to dismiss 8 trial. We're not going to be waiting long. In two weeks the 9 -- we'll be back. The evidence is going to be presented to 10 you. You're gonna make a decision. It may be the end of the 11 trial, it may be a month later. It may be sooner or later, but 12 around that time. So I see no downside and simply adjourning 13 it without date.

14 Obviously, the committee believes strongly that 15 exclusivity should be halted, that we should be given the 16 opportunity to at least put a plan on file so that we can end 17 this veil of mystery that keeps being thrown at us, that we 18 don't really have a plan, that we're afraid to put forward the 19 financials because it's going to undermine our case. We don't 20 believe that for a nanosecond. We believe in what we're 21 prepared to put forward. But we also believe that the gating 22 issue is the dismissal hearing, so we're not urging you to not 23 do dismissal so that you can have a competing plan. I mean, 24 that's certainly not our game.

25 But I've also been thinking what would I do if I were

1 sitting in your shoes and I was facing the potential hearing of 2 a disclosure statement? And how would I, as the judge 3 determine, does it indeed contain adequate information as 4 you're going to be required to find under 1125. And we know 5 from the discovery that's taken place, limited as it is, that 6 we have not had one debtor supportive party, who's been able to 7 articulate how much a claimant will receive under the debtors
8 proposed plan. We know it's a pod plan. We know it's 8.9 9 billion is a cap, but beyond that, we do not know if a talc 10 claimant is going to receive 1,000, 100 or 10,000 or whatever 11 the number might be. How can they possibly review the 12 disclosure statement and make a determination as to how they 13 should vote?

14 So in LTL1, you believe that the road to making and 15 helping you make that determination, because you were facing 16 similar issues, albeit not a proposed plan, was to appoint an 17 estimation expert. We submit that the court believes that the 18 disclosure statement process should go through -- should go 19 forward, that the debtors premise that we must act on this dual 20 parallel path before determining the motions to dismiss, then 21 we believe that you should reappoint Mr. Feinberg. Reappoint 22 him so that he can begin to unveil the mystery of how many 23 claimants are in this case, and what is the value of their 24 claims. Perhaps this is also the time, as Mr. Molton alluded 25 to, for the court to consider implementation of a bar date

1 motion, so that we can all point -- and for the purposes of 2 voting, let me be clear, -- so that we can all point to an 3 objective measurement of who is a claimant and what kind of 4 claim do they have.

5 Again, as we said, we believe the motions to dismiss 6 are significant. We think they're important gating issues. We 7 do not believe in the urgency that the debtor has been 8 suggesting that we must proceed on, which I frankly find a 9 little bit ironic, because at the end of the day, when one 10 reviews their plan, there isn't one nickel going out to any 11 talc claimant, until all appeals have been exhausted and 12 there's a not-appealable order. That could be months. That 13 could be years.

14 But if we're going to proceed down this parallel path
15 and you appoint Mr. Feinberg, let him, let his team continue 16 and let him not only continue his work but complete the work 17 they began. Perhaps also direct that there be a bar date for 18 voting so that that process can be imposed, so that at some 19 point we will all know the numerators and denominators, I 20 believe is what you refer to before in each class of creditors.
21 Because in the absence of knowing this, I don't know frankly, 22 how you will be able to make the determination that the 23 disclosure statement contains adequate information. And I
24 don't believe we will have any possibility for any talc 25 claimant to determine with any degree of certainty how much he

1 or she will be paid and when.

2 We have heard numbers bandied around that there's 3 40,000 claimants, 100,000 claimants. I guess it depends who's 4 at the podium at the moment and who is speaking, but there's no
5 financial house on fire. This case is as far from Lehman
6 Brothers as -- as one could imagine. There's no good reason 7 why we need to start the process, but if we do start the 8 process, I believe it needs to start with those two important 9 components being pivotal to the process, because at some point, 10 if the case is not dismissed, we all deserve to know who are 11 the claimants, what type of claim do they have, and what is the 12 value of that claim.

13 Thank you.

14 THE COURT: Thank you, Ms. Cyganowski.

15 Mr. Sponder.

16 MR. SPONDER: Good afternoon, Your Honor. Jeff 17 Sponder from the Office of the United States Trustee.

18 Your Honor, the United States Trustee agrees with the 19 TCC that the disclosure statement hearing should be adjourned 20 without date after decision on the motion to dismiss. We have 21 heard a few times today that an amended plan will be filed. So 22 why we're going forward with a disclosure statement hearing 23 when we know an amended complaint is coming doesn't make sense 24 to us. We agree and we appreciate that the debtor has proposed 25 a date in August. If that's sufficient time, that's -- that's

1 fine. I just don't know if a date in August would be 2 sufficient time, but at least we're now in August.

3 The other thing, Your Honor, from the United States
4 Trustee's objection was that the original disclosure statement
5 motion had some dates and filing times change a little bit. It 6 was the objections by -- by parties and interest and claimants 7 that objected to the disclosure statement had less time and the 8 debtor had more time to reply, and I at least want to reserve 9 my rights, the United States Trustee's rights when we get more 10 information on that.

11 THE COURT: All right, fair enough. Thank you.

12 MR. SPONDER: Thank you, Your Honor.

13 THE COURT: Okay, we're just kicking off these 14 issues. I've heard enough on that issue. Do we want to move 15 to the reimbursement of the Ad Hocs -- professionals.

16 MR. PRIETO: Good afternoon, Your Honor. Dan Prieto, 17 Jones Day, on behalf of the debtor.

18 Your Honor, the debtors goal in this case is to 19 obtain confirmation of its proposed plan as promptly as 20 possible. And as you've heard, we entered this case with plan 21 support agreements with law firms representing 60,000 talc 22 claimants. And while we have the support -- their support for 23 the -- the material terms of a plan, what we need now is 24 assistance from them to finalize the plan, the disclosure 25 statement, and the related documents, including the trust

1 distribution procedures in accordance with the plan support 2 agreements. You've obviously heard we're in the process of 3 doing that and filing an amended plan.

4 These plaintiffs lawyers are very sophisticated, but 5 they're not bankruptcy lawyers. So consistent with our goal in 6 this case, we negotiated the terms of the reimbursement
7 agreement with the Ad Hoc Committee, which is comprised of I 8 think 15 of the plaintiff law firms who are parties to the plan
9 support agreements. And the reimbursement agreement permits
10 the Ad Hoc Committee to retain experienced bankruptcy counsel, 11 (indiscernible) things as well as local counsel, that will help 12 finalize the debtor's plan and fully participate in this case.
13 So we believe this agreement is unquestionably beneficial to 14 the debtor's estate and should be approved pursuant to section 15 363(b) of the bankruptcy code.

16 The terms of this reimbursement agreement are very 17 straightforward, Your Honor. It provides for the reimbursement
18 of the Ad Hoc Committee's bankruptcy and local counsel, fees
19 and expenses as well as the Ad Hoc Committee members' expenses 20 -- you know, documented out-of-pocket expenses. It also 21 underscores that the Ad Hoc Committee agrees to participate in 22 mediation, which is important to us, as well as continuing to 23 support the debtor's proposed plan. And each party has the 24 right to terminate the agreement at any time for any reason, 25 effective on ten-day's notice. So, Your Honor, we submit that

1 for the reasons that we set forth in our motion as well as the 2 Kim declaration, the debtor's entry into this agreement is a 3 proper exercise of the debtor's business judgment. And that's 4 because the agreement provides very clear and important 5 benefits to the debtor's estate.

6 First, it enables the Ad Hocs to -- you know, to work 7 on our plan as needed, which presents a very significant 8 savings in costs and time, because it avoids the need for us to 9 negotiate individually with the 15 separate law firms on all 10 the issues that would be relevant to a plan and in this case.

11 Second, it permits the Ad Hoc Committee itself to 12 participate in all aspects of this case, including mediation, 13 which ensures that the views of these plaintiff law firms, 14 which represent a significant number of claimants in this case, 15 can be heard. Your Honor is well aware the TCC is comprised of 16 law firms, and claimants who oppose this case, oppose our plan.
17 So we think it's important that the Ad Hoc Committee and the 18 reimbursement agreement permit the Ad Hoc Committee to provide 19 a counterbalance to the views of the TCC in this case.

20 And then third, Your Honor, the debtor can terminate 21 the agreement if it determines that it no longer is beneficial 22 to the estate, because for instance, the plan process is no 23 longer proceeding or mediation is terminated.

24 Now, Your Honor, the TCC, the US Trustee and Maune
25 Raichle, which are all parties who are seeking to dismiss this

1 case and oppose the debtor's plan, I think, from my 2 perspective, not surprisingly, have objected to this agreement, 3 notwithstanding its clear benefits to the estate. And what 4 they argue is that you know, at a minimum it shouldn't be 5 entered into right now. But each of their points, Your Honor, 6 is misguided. Number one, the TCC and Maune Raichle argue that 7 the motion is premature because of their pending motions to 8 dismiss, but Your Honor has already addressed how this case is 9 going to proceed in connection with the TCC's motion to suspend 10 this case. I think Your Honor was clear that they were going 11 to do a dual track. You have the motions to dismiss, but you 12 also have the rest of the case, the plan process, and that you 13 weren't going to, you know, stop one while the other is 14 pending. So really, that argument is just an effort to have, 15 Your Honor, revisit that ruling and try to disrupt and delay
16 further progress on the debtor's plan in this case.

17 Next, Your Honor, the TCC argues that the agreement
18 is not necessary, because the members of the Ad Hoc Committee 19 have already agreed to support the debtor's plan pursuant to 20 the plan support agreements. And I think earlier today I heard 21 the opposite, which is apparently there was no support. It's 22 all illusion. But if I take them at their word, I acknowledge 23 that we had their support already. That's evident by their 24 actions in this case, but that misses the point. I mean, the 25 point is that the whole purpose of this is agreement is to

1 ensure that they'll continue to engage experienced bankruptcy 2 counsel and other professionals to actively participate in 3 finalizing our plan and related documents, participate in the 4 plan process, including, you know, disclosure statement 5 hearings, confirmation hearings, and to -- and to ensure that 6 they can continue to participate with the guidance of 7 professionals in the mediation. Again without it, Your Honor, 8 there's a material risk that we'll have to negotiate with each 9 member of the Ad Hoc Committee, which would add a level of 10 complexity, inefficiency, and costs to the whole process.

11 And then also, Your Honor, the US Trustee argues that 12 the agreement may not be beneficial to the estate because it 13 can be terminated even if the plan of reorganization is not 14 finalized or confirmed. But what the US Trustee overlooks is 15 that by providing us the opportunity to finalize the plan, and 16 -- and to mediate with the Ad Hoc Committee, the agreement 17 facilitates progress in this case, which itself constitutes a 18 benefit to our estate.

19 And I think the last set of objections, Your Honor, 20 I'm not going to go into too much detail because they all 21 relate to your authority to approve this agreement under 22 Section 363(b) and that's a topic that you've already addressed 23 in our prior case in connection with our request to enter into 24 a similar agreement with the Ad Hoc Committee estates. I mean, 25 fundamentally, I think what the US Trustee's position is is

1 that 503(b) and 363(b) are in conflict and we have to use
2 503(b). Well, that's not the case, as Your Honor previously 3 and found. Section 503(b) permits a creditor or a committee to 4 request payment of professional fees, typically on a 5 retroactive basis while in contrast 363(b) permits a debtor or 6 trustee to use property of the estate outside of the ordinary 7 course of business where it benefits estates, including by 8 paying fees and expenses of creditors. Your Honor has already 9 reached that conclusion. It's supported by the rulings in 10 Purdue, in Mallinckrodt, and Bethlehem Steel.

11 So the only the only other argument on the authority 12 I wanted to briefly address was the TCC's argument that Your 13 Honor does not have the ability to approve this motion because 14 of the decision of the Delaware Bankruptcy Court in the Boy 15 Scouts case, but Your Honor, as we said in our reply or our -- 16 yeah, our reply, you know, that case was completely an opposite 17 to our situation here, and frankly, inconsistent with Your 18 Honor's prior ruling. I say it's an opposite because I think 19 the concern of the court in Boy Scouts was that there was going 20 to be duplication of services and expenses between the Ad Hoc 21 Committee and the official committee in that case. Well, 22 that's clearly not an issue here. The Ad Hoc Committee is 23 working with us on our plan and trying to finalize the plan.
24 While the TCC is seeking to dismiss this case, and frustrate
25 and thwart our efforts to to obtain a successful

1 reorganization, and a confirmation of our plan. So there's not 2 overlapping services. They're operating distinctly.

3 Also unlike in Boy Scouts, the debtor's proposed plan 4 will fully satisfy the talc claims and the debtor has 5 sufficient resources to provide the necessary trust funding 6 required by the plan, you know, plus to pay all the -- its 7 other obligations in the bankruptcy case. So there's been no
8 harm articulated by the objectors to this motion as in terms 9 of, you know, what harm would befall them if -- if you allow us 10 to pay these fees, enter into this agreement in order to 11 facilitate our plan process.

12 So, Your Honor, to conclude, I submit that the court 13 should approve the debtor's entry into this reimbursement
14 agreement under Section 363(b). The court should reject the US 15 Trustee and the TCC's technical arguments that are based on 16 incorrect reading of the bankruptcy code, and authorize the 17 debtor to enter into an agreement that will ensure that the Ad
18 Hoc Committee may continue to work to finalize the debtor's 19 plan and allow us to promptly pursue confirmation of it.

20 Thank you, Your Honor.

21 THE COURT: All right. Thank you.

22 Mr. Hansen.

23 MR. HANSEN: Kris Hansen with Paul Hastings on behalf 24 of the Ad Hoc Committee.

25 Your Honor, if you agree with many other courts that

1 permit a debtor to exercise its business judgment under 363(b)
2 to pay fees and expenses for Ad Hoc Committees, then the 3 determination you need to make is really a question of the 4 reasonableness of that exercise of the debtor's business
5 judgment, which the Ad Hoc Committee posits is a very easy 6 decision. Business judgment is generally given great deference 7 unless something is patently wrong or patently obviously wrong 8 either in the analysis that led to the decision or in the 9 facial relief that' sought, and neither of those circumstances 10 exists here. And none of the objectors are really saying that.
11 Really, the questions that are raised predominantly in 12 opposition or whether or not 363(b) should be available or 13 whether a 503(b) is the exclusive provision. The Ad Hoc 14 Committee does not believe the 503(b) is the exclusive 15 provision for the approval of fees of Ad Hoc Committees or 16 individual creditors.

17 Beyond the cases that were cited in all the briefs,
18 you obviously have the myriad of cases where you have Ad Hocs 19 come in in connection with backstop agreements and other types 20 of plan support agreements who get compensated, not only in 21 their capacity as financing providers, but for their 22 participation in the case. And those, there are there are 23 probably hundreds of those cases. So we believe that 363(b) is 24 easily available to the debtor on that front.

25 And the only other real opposition is premised upon

1 the Boy Scouts decision. Mr. Prieto covered that pretty well, 2 but it was different here in three different ways. The first 3 is this concept of duplication of effort. There's no
4 duplication of effort here with the TCC. I think that's 5 obvious. It's actually the complete opposite.

6 As I mentioned earlier, you know, from the Ad Hoc 7 Committees perspective, we are continually frustrated by what 8 we feel are attacks by the TCC on the Ad Hoc Committee and the 9 claimants that the members of that committee represent.
10 Pointing it out again the Ad Hoc -- the TCC owes a fiduciary 11 duty to those parties. And here we are constantly defending 12 ourselves in the face of their actions. The Ad Hoc Committee 13 has stepped in and is trying to advance the cases and the 14 interests of approximately 60,000 claimants. The progress is 15 tangible. There's a plan on file. We're talking about the 16 disclosure statement and participating in mediation, et cetera.

17 The second major way that it's different from Boy
18 Scouts is the fees paid to the Ad Hoc Committee professionals 19 will not reduce any recoveries provided to the underlying 20 claimants in connection with this case. So there's no harm to 21 be put upon any party in this case.

22 And third, it appeared that in the Boy Scouts case, 23 certainly the Ad Hoc fees were being paid by state law counsel.
24 They had made representations to that effect, which is not the 25 case here. So circling back, Your Honor, the debtors -- that

1 we believe that the debtors here exercised their business 2 judgment in a rational and reasonable way, that it should be 3 respected by the court for the multitude of reasons that are 4 highlighted in the pleadings.

5 THE COURT: Thank you.

6 MR. HANSEN: Thank you, Your Honor.

7 THE COURT: Ms. Richenderfer.

8 MS. RICHENDERFER: Thank you, Your Honor. Linda 9 Richenderfer from the Office the United States Trustee. I hope 10 I didn't disrupt anybody. It's hard to hear Mr. Hansen in the 11 back of the room. So no one's ever accused me of not speaking 12 loud enough. So I wanted to move up so I could hear him.

13 Your Honor, I'm going to start at the back and work
14 my way forward, because I'm first going to address 363 and why 15 I think that there are a lot of concerns that arise in this 16 situation, and the reasons why 363, therefore, is not a 17 mechanism by which the court and the US Trustee could perform 18 our duties of determining whether or not fees should be paid to 19 counsel in certain circumstances. And we've got to start with 20 looking at what is the AHC, the Ad Hoc Committee here? The Ad
21 Hoc Committee is firms. They are not creditors of the estate.
22 I think that needs to be very carefully pointed out first.

23 In fact, the Ad Hoc Committee makes clear in its 24 verified statement -- and we mentioned this, Your Honor, in our 25 filing, that they don't represent the claimants and they don't

1 represent the individual firms. They just represent the Ad Hoc 2 Committee. So it's the structure, I guess, that they 3 represent. And if they don't represent the creditors or the 4 claimants and they don't represent the law firms, they just 5 represent the structure. And then what is the structure doing?
6 The structure is supporting what the debtors are doing.

7 And so there's a reimbursement agreement. And if 8 there comes a point in time when the structure decides not to 9 follow in lockstep behind the debtor, then the debtor can use 10 the reimbursement agreement, and its ability to terminate for 11 any or no reason and can stop paying the fees and expenses of 12 the Ad Hoc Committee. And that, to me, Your Honor, creates a 13 dangerous situation.

14 The TCC is appointed by the US Trustee's Office. It 15 retains counsel. Counsel files applications. They're reviewed 16 by Your Honor. They're reviewed by the US Trustee. They're 17 reviewed by all parties and interest. Objections can be filed.

18 To the extent there's more than one firm, we always 19 demand that the order includes some sort of reduction on scope 20 so that we know who is responsible for what duties so that if 21 we get a fee app that shows that three firms are doing the same 22 thing, we can go back and say that's beyond the scope of your 23 responsibilities. Here we have an Ad Hoc Committee that has 24 two very large firms, Paul Hastings and Cole Schotz, in 25 addition to local counsel, which I'm confused about since Cole

1 Schotz does have a New Jersey office, but we have three law
2 firms. Under 363, if Your Honor approves this, there's not 3 going to be any ability to look at the applications that are 4 filed and say, oh, you did duplicative of work here or, like,
5 why are all three firms here? Like, why do we have two 6 partners from Cole Schotz here today, and at least one from 7 Paul Hastings, and one from local counsel? Or maybe it's two 8 Paul Hastings. I'm not exactly sure who the fourth gentleman 9 is.

10 So there are questions like that that the court is 11 going to lose the ability to address, that my office is going 12 to lose the ability to address. They say the money to pay the 13 fees is not going to come out of the recovery. Well, it's 14 coming from somewhere. I mean, the if there's a trust for $8.9 15 billion, that doesn't mean more money wouldn't be available if 16 the debtor is making money off of its subsidiary that is 17 supposed to be receiving funds from different agreements that 18 it has for use of trademarks. If -- the money is coming from 19 somewhere, and it's coming from a place where it could be used
20 to help fund the plan. So it might not be coming from the 8.9 21 billion that we keep talking -- hearing about that's in the 22 agreement, I guess, between Holdco and the debtor and then 23 between Holdco and J&J, but it's coming from a place that where 24 normally funds with come from to pay off other creditors of the 25 estate.

1 The -- I think I heard debtor's counsel say something 2 about the US Trustee doesn't want the plan to go forward or has 3 already taken a position against the plan. I think we were 4 lumped in with the TCC. To be clear, Your Honor, we've taken 5 no position on that plan. Also be clear, Your Honor, I have 6 been so busy with other matters in this case, I know I haven't 7 read it yet. I'll be honest. And I don't know the members of 8 our team have had the chance to sit down and really even 9 analyze it yet. So I just want to be clear upfront, the US
10 Trustee takes no position at all on the plan that's been filed, 11 other than the fact that, Your Honor, I do listen to the 12 depositions. And I have heard what the deponents have said.
13 I'm not going to get into an argument up here today, but I know 14 what people have said in the depositions, and I know that the 15 terms of PSA are not all included in the current plan. I've 16 heard that more than once. It doesn't mean people are against 17 the current plan, but I've heard more than once one -- a party 18 from one of the 15 firms say that during a deposition.

19 I've also heard that there are no mesothelioma
20 clients who have signed on to the plan. That even an attorney 21 who represents meso and ovarian cancers made clear he's 22 excluding his mesothelioma claimants from people who are, I
23 guess, indirectly parties to the PSA. They're not directly 24 parties to the PSA. So I just want to be clear that, one, we 25 take no position yet on the plan. And two, let's be clear on

1 what people are really saying during depositions. I'm giving 2 you just very few quotes that have stuck in my head.

3 I'm not going to get into an argument about who 4 represents majority/minority. I don't know, but it's very 5 murky. That's all I can tell Your Honor at this point in time.
6 I know that the people who have signed the PSAs are continuing 7 to work on the amended plan, but I also know that, like I said, 8 terms of the PSA are not all in the plan that was filed.

9 So we go to the fact that -- and I touched upon this 10 briefly -- the firms that make up the structure of the Ad Hoc 11 Committee have fiduciary duties, of course, to their clients.
12 And they have said -- and this is -- I don't think we can argue 13 with this. They're not going to recommend something to their 14 clients unless they are satisfied with it. And then I guess 15 for the Ad Hoc, they work for Mr. Hansen. And again, the 16 debtor can terminate that reimbursement agreement for any 17 reason or no reason. And then I don't know who is going to pay 18 for the fees of Mr. Hansen if the reimbursement agreement goes 19 away because of what the debtor has decided it likes or doesn't 20 like.

21 When we had the State Attorney General's agreement in 22 the first case, Your Honor, there was a scope that was defined
23 in there that the Ad Hoc Committee's counsel was going to move 24 forward on and there was a limitation of an amount. We don't 25 have anything of that nature in this agreement right now. It's 1 a very for any and all reasons and there doesn't appear to be 2 any sort of capping of the amount that would be paid out of the 3 debtor's estate.

4 I've already mentioned that we've got no order that's 5 going to define what each of the firms is going to do. They 6 will be submitting applications. I guess then that the court 7 could undertake to hear objections to those applications. But 8 again, I don't know what standard we're using because it's 363.
9 We have no order. And they're talking about using the format 10 that's in the court's order regarding payment of legal fees.
11 But I'm not so sure that they've included all of the bells and 12 whistles that go along with that: reasonableness that there is 13 a limitation to the type of expenses that are incurred, or 14 limitation to the number of people that participate in certain 15 things. I don't know that that is part of this analysis.

16 To be clear, I'm not saying -- we don't say the 503 17 and 363 are directly adverse to each other. They're not. They 18 deal with different things. 363 deals with situations when the 19 debtor has to use its business judgment. 503 specifically 20 deals with a particular situation when you have an Ad Hoc 21 Committee that wants to be paid for work that it did. It's not 22 a carve out of 363. It's something totally different. This is 23 when and how an Ad Hoc Committee gets paid and they get paid at 24 the end of the case after they have been able to show that they 25 have -- they can show a demonstrable benefit to the debtor's

1 estate, and the creditors; an actual benefit, not hypothetical.
2 Don't know yet what the outcome is going to be of the Ad Hoc's 3 involvement.

4 Your Honor, we did mention in a footnote in our 5 pleading -- this is another problem by going this route. I
6 don't know whether or not Cole Schotz does or doesn't have a 7 conflict. If this was a case where they were being retained to 8 represent a committee, we certainly would go through a whole 9 host of issues with them and we plan to do so when we do
10 retention applications in the Whittaker case. They disclosed 11 in the Whittaker case that they did represent this Ad Hoc 12 Committee here, but in the paperwork that was filed here -- the 13 initial paperwork, there was no disclosure of their involvement 14 in representing the Whittaker debtor.

15 And there is a concern that they, in their reply, the 16 Ad Hoc Committee counsel states that there are claimants who 17 have filed suit against both Whittaker and LTL or JJCI or 18 whatever in the same case. And they don't think that's a 19 conflict. Well, I don't know. I haven't asked them. I 20 haven't been able to ask them about that. I don't know how 21 many cases we're talking about. I also know that different 22 states have different laws on joint and several liability.

23 So I don't know if there would be a situation where 24 they would be adverse. All I know is that Cole Schotz 25 represents the debtor in Whittaker and represents the Ad Hoc

1 Committee in this case. And to me, Your Honor, that is a 2 situation that we would very much investigate if they were 3 coming in under 1103 as counsel to a committee and we will 4 investigate it in Whittaker where they're coming in as counsel 5 to the debtor under 327(a).

6 The -- we hear time and time again, that the Ad Hoc 7 Committee supports the plan. They're in favor of the plan. It 8 looks to me like we've got a locked in group of people. And 9 that's another concern. We want everyone to make sure that 10 they have an open mind and are addressing the concerns of their 11 constituencies. And I think maybe sometimes in order to try to 12 counter what we've heard in deposition, sometimes the Ad Hoc 13 Committee, you know, we're in favor of the plan, we're going to 14 support the plan. Well, then they're locked into that. And 15 again, that's another reason why the reimbursement agreement 16 concerns the US Trustee. That's why you do it after the fact 17 as opposed to before the fact and wait and see whether they 18 make a real contribution to the estate.

19 The -- there's one more point that was made there at 20 the end. Yeah, people talk about Boy Scouts. They talk about 21 a lot of other cases that are out there. Most of them are oral 22 rulings. We don't know the facts and circumstances. I think 23 it was in the Ad Hoc or the debtors' -- I'm not sure. There 24 was a whole paragraph of them. I have no idea of the 25 circumstances in those cases. And I think that's because every 1 court looks at this and makes a decision based on the 2 circumstances of a case.

3 THE COURT: I've never been swayed by those 4 paragraphs with a litany of citations.

5 MS. RICHENDERFER: Yeah.

6 THE COURT: Sometimes they include me, sometimes they 7 don't --

8 MR. RICHENDERFER: Right. Right. And --

9 THE COURT: -- where we've ruled in the past.

10 MS. RICHENDERFER: And, Your Honor, I know how you 11 ruled before in the first case, so I know that one, and that 12 was with the State Attorney General's group. And again, there 13 was a scope limitation in there. They -- all they were doing, 14 if I recall correctly, was that they were going to participate 15 in the mediations. They weren't promising to take one position 16 or another. They were promising to work in the mediations and 17 try to arrive at a plan and -- that would cover their concerns.
18 And there was a cap on the amount. And we don't have that 19 here. And so I think that's distinguishing. So I will 20 distinguish Your Honor to yourself, and I'll end with that.

21 Thank you, Your Honor.

22 THE COURT: Thank you.

23 MS. RICHENDERFER: And if you have any questions, --

24 THE COURT: No, I don't. Thank you very much.

25 Mr. Molton?

1 MR. MOLTON: Judge, I'm not going to present, but I
2 want to introduce you to Eric Goodman from my office, Brown 3 Rudnick, who has been waiting, I think over a year, to take the 4 rostrum here and have a session in front of Your Judge.

5 Thank you, Your Honor.

6 THE COURT: I'm sure it will be underwhelming.
7 Welcome.

8 MR. GOODMAN: Thank you, Your Honor. Eric Goodman, 9 proposed counsel for the talc claims committee, Brown Rudnick,
10 here on behalf of the talc claimants committee.

11 THE COURT: By the way, I think I've entered those 12 orders.

13 UNIDENTIFIED MALE SPEAKER: (Indiscernible)
14 proposed?

15 UNIDENTIFIED MALE SPEAKER: Some of them.

16 THE COURT: So we could stop with the proposed.

17 UNIDENTIFIED MALE SPEAKER: Your Honor, I think Brown
18 Rudnick is now counsel but Ms. Cyganowski is still proposed 19 counsel.

20 UNIDENTIFIED MALE SPEAKER: Oh.

21 THE COURT: Okay. Reach out for chambers. We'll get 22 it entered.

23 MR. GOODMAN: I keep hearing the word proposed used, 24 so I didn't want to be presumptuous.

25 THE COURT: That's fair.

1 MR. GOODMAN: So, but I will -- I'll drop proposed.
2 That's fine.

3 Your Honor, I'm not going to repeat what we've argued 4 in our papers. I think you have them and I note that Your 5 Honor and your staff seem to do a great job carefully 6 reviewing, you know, the submissions that are brought before 7 the court.

8 I think the one issue that I would like to address 9 just because I find it so jarring to hear is this concept that 10 the official committee doesn't represent all of the talc
11 claimants in this case. We care deeply about every talc 12 claimant in this case. Deeply. That is why we work so hard.
13 That is why we spent so much time in this case, on our papers, 14 our pleadings, our plan, which is real. It's not a bluff.
15 It's ready to go. It's 84 pages long. I just called it up.
16 You know, there's no bluffing here, your honor.

17 We work tirelessly in this case and it doesn't matter
18 to me, which state court counsel represents the victim. I 19 don't care if -- if -- if it's an Onder firm talk claimant. I 20 don't care if it's a Beasley Allen talc claimant. We represent 21 all of them.

22 If they're supporting firms, in some ways, I feel 23 like they almost need us more. And we work tirelessly for 24 everyone in this case. So to suggest that there are some folks
25 who are disenfranchised or they're not being heard, I reject

1 that unequivocally, Your Honor. We are here for all of the top
2 claimants and we will be working our tail off. We have been 3 through the first case, through this case. That's not going to 4 end.

5 Nothing further, Your Honor.

6 THE COURT: Thank you, Counsel, and welcome again.

7 Anyone else?

8 (No verbal response.)

9 THE COURT: All right. Mr. Prieto?

10 MR. PRIETO: I think I'm good, Your Honor.

11 THE COURT: All right. All right. I think other 12 than the uncontested matters, we're done. Correct?

13 UNIDENTIFIED MALE SPEAKER: Yes.

14 THE COURT: As far as items on the agenda. Then let 15 me go through with rulings. I'll go backwards.

16 We'll start with the reimbursement requests for the 17 Ad Hoc Committee. This court does not look to reverse itself 18 on its analysis as part of the appropriateness of 503(b), or 19 more importantly, the use of 363 in authorizing the debtor in 20 possession to seek to enter into a reimbursement agreement with 21 professionals for the Ad Hoc Committee as it did in the prior 22 case. The same analysis as far as the legal analysis would 23 come into play. There are differences here, no doubt, but this 24 court is persuaded that the role of the Ad Hoc Committee in 25 this case, in the present case, is important to assist the 1 debtor in trying to facilitate the -- an agreement with talc 2 claimants, an ultimate agreement with the plan to -- to 3 identify issues of concern to the talc claimant community, and 4 to work to support in this case the debtor's efforts, but also 5 the interests of the bankruptcy estate. The committee lends a 6 voice to a group of claimants or potentially thousands of 7 claimants who at this juncture, hold a differing view from the 8 direction of this case. That doesn't mean that views don't 9 change. Attorney views change, client views change as cases 10 progress. There is nobody who I ever view as should be locked 11 into a case and I don't expect Mr. Hansen, the Ad Hoc Committee 12 or the underlying claimant council or the underlying claimants 13 be locked in to any position as this case unfolds, to the 14 extent this case of bolts beyond the motion to dismiss. But 15 there is no reason for this court not to defer to the business 16 judgment of the debtor as recognized by the courts and 17 Mallinckrodt and Purdue and others.

18 I won't disagree with the analysis of Judge
19 Silverstein and in the Boy Scout case. We have different 20 facts, a different fact pattern here. There is no -- there's 21 nothing to suggest to this court that reimbursement by the 22 debtor for the fees and expenses of the Ad Hoc group will 23 diminish in any way any recovery by talc -- by claimants in 24 this case. I hear much to the opposite about how well healed 25 the debtor is and all the affiliates. So it's -- it is -- it's 1 just nonsensical to believe that the money spent on the 2 professionals will have any meaningful prejudicial impact at 3 all, on the talc claimants.

4 As to potential conflicts, I expect the US Trustee to 5 investigate and can take action in the other wonderful case I'm 6 lucky to have, Whittaker, Clark & Daniels, if it's appropriate 7 with the with the with the Cole Schotz firm or -- or any other 8 potential conflict. I will require that compensation be 9 consistent with the interim order for professionals in this 10 case, and be subject to a section 330 review, so that there is 11 a standard for review -- a reasonableness standard. So, 12 counsel can, to the extent appropriate, submit a form of order.

13 With respect to the committee's motion seeking to 14 terminate exclusivity, I am very much guided by -- I think it 15 was Judge Gerber in Adelphi who looked at this -- the critical 16 issue, the critical factor to be whether terminating 17 exclusivity will actually move a case forward; what is the 18 benefit to the overall structure of the case. In candor, I'm 19 not there yet. I think I need more information.

20 What I hear on both sides is potential litigation, 21 substantial issues to be resolved on any plan, and doubling it 22 at this juncture may not be prudent, but I'm not prepared to 23 say it's not the right pathway. I'm just not there yet. And 24 I'm going to defer and carry this as was suggested until after 25 the motion to dismiss. I think the motion to dismiss is a

1 gating process, but it's also going to help inform the court as 2 to a host of the issues that have been touched on with respect 3 to the debtor's motivations, plan process, the ability to 4 identify claimants, the number of claimants -- everything that 5 we've been discussing. And I'm going to carry the exclusivity 6 motion to August 2nd, which is an omnibus date for LTL.

7 Now, why that date? Because we will be -- we will 8 have completed the trial on the motions to dismiss by the end
9 of that last week in June. There will be post-trial 10 submissions, and then this court will get on the task of 11 rendering a ruling. I will have a ruling before the August 2nd 12 hearing. I think that's fair to the parties in making 13 submissions and should be fair to the court. Now, I say that 14 and, of course, we don't know what happens. There can be 15 delays on everybody's end, but that's my goal to have a ruling 16 so I'll be better informed. And again, whether it would be 17 appropriate to address the -- the reserve motion or the 18 continued motion on next -- on terminating exclusivity after 19 hearing all the evidence during the hearing.

20 I will take up the committee's suggestion. I think 21 it's appropriate. Well, no, I'm sorry. We'll get to that.
22 That's on the preliminary injunction.

23 One of the frustrations of being up here on the bench 24 is you have ideas on how to handle things. And then all the 25 attorneys who are very -- the most competent professionals we

1 have in this practice, tend to beat me to the punch. The 2 issues that Mr. Cyganowski brought up are very relevant: bar 3 date and whether or not we need to estimate claims in total in 4 order to provide the appropriate disclosures to move forward 5 with a plan process or how critical they are to a plan process.
6 What I want to do is that that August 2nd hearing, to the 7 extent the case survives dismissal at that point, is to have a 8 discussion on those issues, not motion practice. You all can 9 submit letters and -- on your thoughts about whether or not or 10 how to handle the bar date. We'll try a civil discourse.
11 We'll see if that works without motion practice, and ideas on 12 whether or not to continue with the estimation process and how 13 to how to begin -- how to conclude that. I think that makes 14 sense and we can address it on the August 2nd date as well.

15 With respect to the debtor's request for -- to move 16 forward with the disclosure statement hearing, we just touched 17 on it. There are significant issues that need to be addressed.
18 I do not believe the debtors are there yet either with the plan 19 from everything we've heard, but they have filed a plan and 20 they have filed a disclosure statement hearing -- I mean they 21 filed a disclosure statement. They are entitled to at least 22 have this court fix a date or a disclosure statement hearing, 23 which I am going to set it August 22nd. That gives us time
24 after I've ruled on the the dismissal motions.

25 I will pick -- I will suggest dates that -- so if we

1 have a hearing on August 22nd, if we actually go forward with 2 the hearing on August 22nd, we all know what happens
3 practically. I'll have objections to a disclosure statement 4 due August 8th and a response by August 18th. If you all in 5 meeting and conferring agree on a different schedule, just 6 advise chambers. I'm just picking those that we have them out 7 there.

8 So it's a disclosure statement hearing on the plan 9 that's been filed or as amended, and we'll deal with that, on 10 August 22nd. Objections to the disclosure statement due August 11 8th and debtor's response or Ad Hoc Committee response or 12 whoever wishes to respond, August 18th

13 MR. STOLZ: Your Honor?

14 THE COURT: Yes.

15 MR. STOLZ: Shouldn't we set a date by which the 16 debtor has to file an amended disclosure statement plan so that 17 we know how long a period we're going to have?

18 THE COURT: I think that's a fair request. Do you 19 have a sense on -- I know you're working on --

20 UNIDENTIFIED FEMALE SPEAKER: (Indiscernible)
21 objections --

22 THE COURT: Don't give them too much credit. It's a 23 blind squirrel.

24 MR. GORDON: Your Honor, Greg Gordon on behalf of the 25 debtor. Rather than delaying, I wonder if you could give us

1 time where we can confer with the Ad Hoc Committee and we'll 2 come back within 24 hours or so with a proposal on that?

3 THE COURT: That's fine. That's fine. We'll -- and 4 we'll fix a date. And keep in mind the need -- it can't be 5 like, you know, August 1st, you know, as an example.

6 MR. GORDON: I understand.

7 THE COURT: Ms. Richenderfer?

8 MS. RICHENDERFER: Yes, Your Honor. I just wanted to 9 be clear that I'm presuming that the request for the new 10 disclosure statement would also be due and be filing at the 11 same time their solicitation procedures, because that would 12 have to be part and parcel of what we would consider at the 13 hearing? I would think.

14 THE COURT: I would think, Counsel.

15 Yes?

16 MR. GORDON: Yes. Our view would be that would be on 17 for the same hearing subject to similar deadlines.

18 THE COURT: Yes.

19 MS. RICHENDERFER: Thank you.

20 THE COURT: Thank you. Thank you for the 21 clarification.

22 Now moving to the debtor's motion.

23 MR. MOLTON: Judge, before you get there, can I ask a 24 question?

25 THE COURT: Yes. Yes.

1 MR. MOLTON: Regarding exclusivity, it would be very 2 helpful if we were able to file our proposed plan on the 3 docket, And if Your Honor wanted that under seal, So in any 4 event that would be available to the debtors, the Ad Hoc 5 Committee and the mediators and us. And I think that that's a 6 useful thing to do as we proceed. I know I suggested it, and 7 from my perspective, we're ready. You know, we're able to get 8 that moving relatively quickly. And that's something that we 9 would request.

10 THE COURT: The question, of course, would be to whom 11 it would be made available? If it's under seal, it would be 12 made -- who do you expect to have access to it?

13 MR. MOLTON: Judge, I would expect the mediation
14 parties and maybe I was a little too -- I would include the US
15 Trustee in that as well as the states. But I would propose 16 that it'd be available to the mediation parties, whoever those 17 might be, but really the debtors, the Ad Hoc Committee, the 18 mediators, you know, ourselves, of course, the US Trustee, the 19 states, and it might be that other Ad Hoc groups including the 20 asbestos mesothelioma group, and others might want to have that 21 but we could agree --

22 THE COURT: Well, let me suggest this.

23 MR. MOLTON: -- agree to confidentiality --

24 THE COURT: Yeah.

25 MR. MOLTON: -- for that.

1 THE COURT: I was going to suggest, we're back on 2 June 22nd. There's no need to have it out before June 22nd.
3 Let's -- why don't the parties meet and confer or at least 4 advise the court of their position on it so that I can digest 5 it? Once the horse is out of the barn, if I approve it, it's 6 hard to take back. I'll certainly consider that. I want to 7 give the debtor an opportunity or the Ad Hoc an opportunity to 8 sit on it and to consider it. All right?

9 MR. MOLTON: Thank you, Judge.

10 THE COURT: With respect to the extension of the 11 current preliminary injunction and the bridge order request, 12 the the only fact that has changed a record since the April 13 hearing on this is that the debtor did, in fact, file their 14 plan and disclosure statements. That I could take judicial 15 notice of, the docket. I am going to rely on my prior 16 findings, and decision, and conclusions to take the opportunity 17 to extend the existing preliminary injunction through and 18 including that August 22nd date. In other words, the existing 19 injunction which enjoins, in effect, simply trial activity, 20 will be extended through August 22nd for the same reasons we've 21 discussed with exclusivity. It gives the court the opportunity 22 to hear the evidence testimony adduced during the trial on the 23 motion to dismiss to see whether it's academic at that point, 24 depending upon the court's ruling.

25 The court is not going to enter any bridge order at 1 this juncture. I will on June 22nd decide, after the 2 submissions, whether or not I -- the court is of the view that 3 the successor claims are property of the bankruptcy estate and 4 subject to 362(a)(3).

5 I am overruling Mr. Satterly's objection. I don't 6 view it as a stay relief motion.

7 Parties are on notice of the parameters of section 8 362. I've said this before. Parties act at their own peril 9 with respect to 362. If creditors wish to have clarity they 10 could bring a motion before me. If the debtor seeks to have 11 clarity or enforcement, they can bring a specific motion before 12 me with respect to a particular case. I am loathe to enter 13 general -- generalized orders on matters when we're talking 14 about tens of thousands of matters.

15 At this juncture, the preliminary injunction that's 16 in effect now will continue through August 22nd. The court 17 will consider adding Janssen Kenvue as protected parties on 18 June 22nd. The court will rule on successor liability issues.
19 At least it's the court's intention to do that on January -- 20 I'm sorry -- on June 22nd.

21 The parties that are protected parties to date, I 22 think all JJCI, Holdco, I think is a protected party. They 23 remain protected parties and covered by the existing 24 preliminary injunction that will remain in effect.

25 All right.

1 I'll ask counsel for the debtor to submit a form of 2 order and serve it.

3 Before we recess -- I'm looking forward to that -- 4 let's talk about the trial coming up, so you have ideas on for 5 June 22nd that we -- we might discuss it again. We have, I 6 believe, ten motions to dismiss. I've already suggested that 7 the parties should consider their submissions as opening 8 statements, written submissions. I don't want ten closings, 9 ten PowerPoints on -- there's got -- there has to be 10 consolidation among -- we'll call it this side of the room.
11 You need to meet and confer to talk about -- I thought about 12 dividing up time. We've had problems in the past, but actually 13 I thought for the most part the first trial we got through it.
14 We got everybody.

15 I will say this in all candor. I -- I dislike having 16 to cut people off short. You've all seen, obviously, I don't 17 like to cut people off short. As the day progresses and we get 18 toward the end of the day and we're rushing to fill in, you are 19 better off submitting in writing closings or arguments because 20 by 4:00 o'clock you all become Peanuts cartoon characters.
21 That's what I'm hearing at that at that juncture.

22 So the written -- I read everything. You might want 23 to consider an agreement to make closings through written 24 submissions or -- but or just limit them. We can't go through 25 what we did with the hearing on the the first preliminary --

1 the preliminary injunction hearing this year, where I was it
2 was a quarter to 7:00 and you're like, no, please two more
3 minutes. It doesn't work. It's not fair to you all. It's not 4 fair to the court. It's not fair to the staff. Let's try to 5 coordinate, but we could talk about it more specifically as far 6 as time allotments and carving up the days.

7 Oh I also I intend to start at 9:00 o'clock to 8 maximize the days and I will have a hard stop at 5:00 so your 9 transportation will be accommodated. So with that, we'll 10 certainly work with you all if you need to make any tweaks or 11 changes, but let's -- let's try to avoid the repetition. As I 12 have tried -- I've said in the past, I pride myself on not 13 being necessarily dense or stupid. I pick up the argument the 14 first time. With a second, I just don't need it repeated 15 endlessly. All right?

16 Anything I can help anyone with? Counsel?

17 MR. STOLZ: Is June 22nd Zoom or in person?

18 THE COURT: I'm fine with -- with Zoom. Does anybody
19 have a dying -- a need to come to Trenton?

20 UNIDENTIFIED MALE SPEAKER: No, sir.

21 THE COURT: I didn't think so. We'll do Zoom.

22 Thank you, Mr. Stolz.

23 All right. We're in recess. Thank you.

24 UNIDENTIFIED MALE SPEAKER: Thank you, Your Honor.

25 MR. GORDON: Oh, wait, oh.

1 THE COURT: Mr. Gordon. There's always one. What?

2 MR. GORDON: Sorry, Your Honor. We were conferring.

3 The one open matter that wasn't addressed, but it's relevant is 4 the Maune Raichle motion on the -- the different types of 5 claimants and whether they're entitled to vote. And I wonder

6 whether that should be discussed as well at the August 2nd

7 hearing as we talked about the potential bar date and the like.

8 THE COURT: We carried that to what date? Do we 9 recall?

10 UNIDENTIFIED MALE SPEAKER: July, Your Honor. July

11 omnibus.

12 MR. GORDON: It might be July 11th.

13 THE COURT: I think it would make sense to include

14 that. Of course, --

15 UNIDENTIFIED MALE SPEAKER: He's not here.

16 THE COURT: -- Mr. Thompson is not here, but why

17 doesn't somebody reach out for him and just --

18 MR. GORDON: We'll do that.

19 THE COURT: -- suggest the August 2nd date would make 20 no sense to.

21 MR. GORDON: We'll do that.

22 THE COURT: All right. Thank you. Thank you all
